Extremity of Japs' Falsehoods Puzzle American Command

May Mean Morale of Nips Is in Bad Need of Bolstering

Washington, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The greatest non-existent naval victories in history are being reported by the Japanese now and the extremity of their lies has the American high command frankly puzzled.

There is more than a little speculation, however, that morale on the Japanese home front, for reasons unknown in Washington, may be in bad need of bolstering. If this is true, it would be the first significant indication that the population of fanatical Japan like that of Germany is susceptible to pressure.

There is a well-established conviction here that the Japanese people actually know little or nothing of the terrific defeats their forces have taken since the battle of the Coral Sea in May, 1942.

This raises the question posed by Secretary Knox at his press conference late yesterday: What could have generated the psychological factors within Japan which have prompted the Tokyo admirals to go the limit in untruthful propaganda?

One possible answer is that the long series of reverses, coupled with the Japanese government's recent warnings that the war situation is grave, finally has given the people of Japan some idea of the true picture.

Another suggestion is that the Japanese high command, saddled with a war-weary population at home and fearing new defeats abroad, is trying to give the people a preliminary propaganda shot-in-the-arm.

With a file of reports in his hand, Knox said that in the past few days the Japanese have claimed the sinking of several allied capital ships and in at least one instance reported the destruction of Admiral William F. Halsey's entire South Pacific fleet.

The truth is, Knox said, there has not even been a sea battle since the night engagement of Nov. 2 in which an American cruiser-destroyer task force sank one enemy cruiser, damaged another; sank two destroyers and damaged four; and suffered relatively minor damage itself.

"Our ships are ranging all over the Pacific," Knox said, "and the Japanese fleet has not been seen. Only detachments of it have showed up in the Bougainville area and they are really engaging in a sort of blockade running. We've given the enemy plenty of opportunity for a scrap, but they didn't seem interested."

150 Czechs in German Army Mutinied Recently Killing German Officer

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The British radio said today that 150 Czechs forced into the German army had mutinied recently near Toulous in France, killing their German non-commissioned officer. The broadcast, recorded by U. S. government monitors, said a detachment of the Nazi elite guard had to be called out to subdue the Czechs.

Berlin Claims 23 Ships of Allied Convoy Sunk

London, Nov. 13.—(AP)—A DNE broadcast from Berlin made the unconfirmed claim today that 23 freighters in an allied convoy attacked off the North African coast by German planes had been sunk or damaged. The Germans, reporting a previous attack on the same convoy yesterday, said 15 ships had been sunk or damaged.

WLB Is Involved in New Quarrel—With AFL Chief

Washington, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The War Labor Board, already in a bitter and long-standing dispute with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, was involved in a new quarrel today — with the head of the American Federation of Labor.

William Green, president of the AFL, protested against a statement by three members of the board that the government may require more powers to enforce compliance by unions with orders of federal agencies.

WLB Chairman William H. Davis, vice chairman George P. Taylor and Dr. Frank P. Graham, public member, raised the question of whether the government needs additional authority. Their opinion concerned the current coal case.

Call Lewis Defiant

Lewis, they said, has repeatedly defied the board. He heads the miners' union. Therefore, they reasoned, the agreement between Lewis and Secretary of Interior Ickes, government boss of the mines, may have to be altered to conform with actual findings concerning underground travel by miners, one of the principal points in dispute in the coal-wage fight.

Green said that such assertions as the board's public members made "make it increasingly difficult for labor to participate in the work of the National War Labor Board."

He wrote Davis that such statements were "unjustifiable," and added:

"You and your associates have rendered a great disservice to labor and to the public through publication of said expressed opinions."

Davis, Taylor and Graham, after reading Green's letter, said in a statement that their question as to governmental authority over unions referred to future issues and had no bearing on past or current controversies.

Board to Administer Service Men's Vote Termed Silly Today

Washington, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) today termed "silly" the objection of Republican National Chairman Harrison E. Spangler to appointment of a presidential board to administer the proposed act enabling the armed forces to vote by absentee ballot next year.

Spangler told the house elections committee earlier this week that he thought the Army and Navy should supervise the soldier voting machinery because they were "non-political."

"That's silly," Lucas declared. "The commission would have nothing whatever to do with the form of the ballot, or with anything else of a partisan nature. The ballot form and procedure to be followed in the voting all would be set out in the bill itself."

The Illinois Democrat predicted the bill he is jointly sponsoring with Senator Green (D-Ri) would be approved by the senate elections committee in a scheduled meeting Monday. It is designed to permit an estimated 5,000,000 or more service men and women and civilians, who are overseas, to vote in the 1944 presidential election.

Tourtellott, Bender Wills Are Probated

The will of the late Major Albert T. Tourtellott, whose death occurred at a veterans' hospital near Chicago on Nov. 1st, was admitted to probate before Judge Grover Gehant in Lee County court Friday afternoon. The inventory lists personal property of the value of $4,000 and real estate valued at $27,500. A daughter, Mrs. Minnie Mossholder of Lamolite is named executrix of the estate, which is to be divided equally among the heirs named as follows: Mary E. Aydelotte, Dixon; Alfred A. Tourtellott, Dixon; Arthur J. Tourtellott, Sublette; Minnie Mossholder, Lamolite; and Frank H. Tourtellott of Roscoe, Cal.

The will of the late Frank J. Bender of this city, whose death occurred May 16, 1936 was also admitted to probate before Judge Gehant. The inventory listed personal property of the value of $500 and real estate valued at $3,200. A daughter, Mrs. Olive Crawford of this city is named executrix, and the will provides that the widow, Blanche Bender of this city be the sole beneficiary.

Triumphant Soviet Troops Surge Upon Strategic Zhitomir

Threaten to Cut Railway; German Escape Flotilla is Destroyed

BULLETIN
London, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Russian forces have captured Zhitomir, cutting the major German railroad from Odessa to Leningrad, an order of the day from Marshal Joseph Stalin said tonight.

Moscow, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Red Army troops, driving directly westward down the Kiev-Zhitomir highway, have passed Korostyshev, the last important town before the strategic Leningrad-Odessa railway.

Gen. Nikolai Vatutin, conqueror of Kiev, took Korostyshev yesterday after covering his flanks by investing Radomyshel to the north and Korinn to the south, in a steady but cautious advance.

The First Ukrainian army is now less than 15 miles from Zhitomir, a Russian communique said, and Cossack advance guards, after passing Korostyshev, are reported operating in the immediate vicinity of that vital rail junction city.

Traffic between the hard pressed German forces north and south of Zhitomir appeared likely to be cut soon, if it has not already been interrupted. Meanwhile the main forces of the First army were reported massing for a direct assault on the rail center, front dispatches indicated, after a day's advance which netted them 100 towns, an unspecified number of prisoners and great quantities of war supplies.

Escape Flotilla Destroyed
Steady progress by Red Army spearheads toward Korosten, another rail junction on the Leningrad-Odessa line northwest of Kiev, also was reported in the Red army communique. South of Rechitsa, where soviet troops were driving into the Pripiet marshes to flank the German

Probe Deferments of Union Officials

Washington, Nov. 13.—(AP)—A move to request Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey to review the occupational draft deferments of union officials developed today as an offshoot of a house naval sub-committee's investigation of plane production failures at the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation plants.

Rep. Maas (R-Minn.), the committee's ranking minority member, said he planned to write Hershey suggesting that he might "well reexamine the deferment of union officials to determine their essentiality."

His action followed the committee's discovery yesterday that two officials in Brewster local 365, United Automotive Workers, CIO—secretary Paul Krebs and financial secretary Gabriel De Angelis—had been classified 2-B, essential men in an essential industry.

Rep. Ward Johnson (R-Calif.) said he planned to refer those two cases in particular to Hershey.

"If a man holds an essential position in an industry, that's different," he said, "but to defer fellows like these works an injustice."

Krebs is 32 and unmarried, but told the committee that he has stomach ulcers which probably would place him in 4-F. De Angelis is 34, married with one child, four months old.

3,500 DeKalb Homes Minus Telephone Service When 44 Operators Walk Out

DeKalb, Ill., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Service from switchboards of the DeKalb-Ogle Telephone Company was being provided for emergencies only today as nearly all of 44 operators remained on strike for higher wages.

The girls walked out yesterday, at a meeting of the union, the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, voted not to return to work until approval of a contract granting increased wages. A spokesman said the contract was under War Labor Board consideration.

The spokesman added this contract, signed Sept. 24 by compa-

First Lady Pushing Anti-Poll Tax Bill, Says Senator Smith

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Washington, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Senator E. D. (Cotton) Smith (D-SC) contended today that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is pushing the anti-poll tax bill which threatens to embroil the senate once more in an acrimonious filibuster.

"I think Mrs. Roosevelt and the administration as well are behind this bill," Smith told this reporter.

"The reason I say this is Mrs. Roosevelt's attitude, demonstrated in her speeches, and the president's attitude in not saying anything specific about the right of the states to qualify their voters."

Smith, who has edged away from the new deal as far as he can and still stay in the Democratic party, declared he would fight the bill "as long as I have breath."

The measure, which passed the house last May by a vote of 265 to 110, then was talked to death by southern senators, would make it illegal to require payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in elections of senators, house members or presidential electors. Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee and Texas have poll tax laws, and their 16 senators are solidly against the bill as a violation of states' rights. Proponents argue that no one should

Illinois Soybean Crop is 36 Pct. of Nation's

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Illinois' record soybean crop accounted for 36 per cent of the nation's total while corn, supplying 14 per cent, was second only to Iowa's production, the Illinois and federal departments of agriculture November report showed today.

Combined production of all crops, the report added, was above average. The soybean production of 75,250,000 bushels led all states. Corn production was placed at a record 446,148,000 bushels. Both totals are unchanged from October estimates. Fall harvest operations and general farm work were reported up to average. Egg production continues at record levels but milk yields are lowest since 1937.

ny and union, provided a 5½ cent increase from a minimum of 32 cents an hour for beginners, and for 4½ cents an hour for operators with longer service records. The operators voted last night to ask a 5½ cent boost for all operators.

F. L. Eby, manager of the exchange, said five girls remained at the boards to handle emergency calls to doctors, hospitals, police and fire departments. He said the walkout left 3,500 homes without service in DeKalb and that Sycamore, Kingston, Malta, and Maple Park were without long distance service, which is routed through DeKalb.

Sink Three Enemy Warships; Damage 11; Get 64 Planes

American Supremacy in Solomon Waters is Asserted Again

Southwest Pacific Allied Headquarters, Nov. 13.—(AP)—American aircraft carriers have won their first big long range duel of the war with Japan's mighty naval and air fortress of Rabaul. They beat that New Britain stronghold to the punch Thursday, sending in the bulk of more than 200 planes which sank a Japanese cruiser and two destroyers, damaged a cruiser and 11 destroyers and shot down 24 enemy interceptors.

Rabaul dispatched 70 revengeful medium bombers and torpedo bombers in four attacks aimed at sinking one of the carriers. Sixty-four were shot into the sea during an hour and 20 minutes of flaming action without accomplishing their mission.

(Navy Secretary Knox said in Washington the enemy's target was a large aircraft carrier and that "not a dent" was made in the big ship).

Carrier planes were aloft in battle readiness to tangle with the enemy bombers while anti-aircraft batteries of the carrier and escorting warships dotted the sky with bursting ack ack.

Seventeen allied planes were lost in defending the carrier and in raising the toll of enemy warships at Rabaul this month to two cruisers and five destroyers sunk, 10 cruisers and 13 destroyers damaged and a cruiser probably damaged.

Minor Damage: Casualties
General MacArthur's headquarters said that minor damages were sustained by some of the ships in the allied carrier force. There were casualties among the crews.

(The naval formations in the operation included "a strong force of airplane carriers," Associated Press war correspondent Vern Haugland wrote from Adm. William F. Halsey's headquarters).

The massed warships, asserting American naval supremacy in Solomon islands waters, not so long ago Japanese-controlled, delivered their third slap at Rabaul's naval power since Marines invaded Bougainville Nov. 1.

The first was the naval battle off the Bougainville beachhead Nov. 1-2 during which American forces, without loss, sank a Japanese cruiser and four destroyers, damaged two cruisers and two destroyers out of 12 enemy warships sent down the 260 miles from Rabaul.

Air Arm's Triumph
On Nov. 5, a carrier force sent out planes which teamed with land-based Army bombers of General MacArthur in sinking a heavy cruiser, damaging five heavy cruisers, two light cruisers and two destroyers at Rabaul. The Rabaul planes could not make it a duel on that occasion.

Thursday's smash was staged entirely by the air arm of Admiral Halsey. After Mitchells and Liberators had moved in the night before to soften resistance by striking at the Vunakanau and Lakunai airdromes, the daylight blows at 23 warships in or near the harbor were delivered by Avenger torpedo bombers, Dauntless dive-bombers and Liberators, covered by Hellcat fighters.

The resultant consternation was so great that two Japanese destroyers collided while racing for the harbor exit.

Georgia Democrat Opens Attack on OPA Authority to Sue for Violations

Washington, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Legislation narrowing the authority of the Office of Price Administration (OPA) to sue citizens for violation of ceilings is being drafted by Senator George (D-Ga.), the first open attack in congress on OPA policies since Chester Bowles succeeded Prentiss M. Brown as administrator.

George told a reporter today he intends to push vigorously a bill to change the price control act which permits OPA to bring suit in any state in which some part of an alleged illegal transaction has taken place.

GOP Puts Out New "Trend" Report to Add to Memorandum

Claims Confirmation of Prospects for Victory Next Year

Washington, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Republican National Committee's publicity machines were busy today turning out single-page supplements to Chairman Harrison E. Spangler's eight-sheet "victory memorandum" of Oct. 25, saying: "Since this victory memorandum was issued, the 1943 elections have come and gone, and the results more than ever confirm the prospect of victory for 1944."

The supplement then lists the state-by-state results and adds: "These results give the Republicans 26 governors in the 38 states outside the solid south. These states have 86,000,000 people—or nearly two-thirds of the entire population—and have 339 electoral votes." (266 are sufficient to elect a president.)

Elaborating on the claims of a Republican "trend" contained in the pre-election memorandum, the Spangler supplement contrasts the Republican picture of 1936, the party's poorest year, and the present, this way:

	1936	1943
Senators	17	38
Representatives	89	208
Governors	8	26
Legislatures (controlled GOP)	9	27

Claims Turnover Certain

Both the Oct. 25 memorandum and the supplement are being mailed to Republican party workers and voters. The original memorandum, accompanied by charts and maps, pointed out that the 1944 election will be decided in the 38 states outside the solid south. It added that in 1940 President Roosevelt carried these northern states by a majority of slightly less than 2,450,000, that a turnover of 1,250,000 would reverse that result, and voting since 1942 indicated the "necessary turnover is certain."

The supplement listed these highlights of the recent off-year voting:

"Kentucky elected the first Republican governor since 1927. In 1940 Roosevelt carried Kentucky by nearly 150,000.

"In New York, a Republican lieutenant governor was elected by a plurality of nearly 350,000. This represents a shift to the Republican ticket of nearly 600,000 voters since Roosevelt carried the state in 1940 by about 225,000.

"New Jersey elected a Republican governor, but his plurality, in spite of a 97,000 adverse vote in Boss Hague's Hudson county, was nearly 40,000 greater than the Republicans received in the 1942 senatorial election. In 1940 the state elected a Democratic governor by 64,000."

Ceiling Prices Set on Holiday Poultry

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Director Carter Jenkins of the Springfield district Office of Price Administration has announced ceiling prices on turkeys and other holiday birds, effective Nov. 15, for 62 central and southern Illinois counties.

Top prices on grade A young turkeys run from 42 cents per pound for heavy live birds to 66 cents for frozen eviscerated turkeys in group 1 and 2 retail stores.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

It's becoming more apparent daily that the immediate future of the world depends chiefly on collaboration among the big three—America, Russia and Britain.

The essence of this fact was emphasized by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in his report to the House of Commons on the tripartite conference at Moscow. After stressing the good-will and confidence established, he said:

"The truth must be faced that it is on the part of these three powers principally that will lie the responsibility for insuring that this war be followed by lasting peace. If they could agree together there is no point that is not capable of final solution. If they do not agree together there is no international event which could not become an international problem."

This is so because, to put it bluntly, these three powers represent an all-round strength which is capable of enforcing their united wills. Their geographical positions and their resources make

Flying Bankers

Orlando, Fla., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The United States Army Air Forces have solved one of the major financial problems of the war by instituting a "flying banking service," enabling its men to get their pay on time and under conditions of actual attack in the combat theaters.

Lt. Col. G. W. Beals, a finance officer attached to the Air Force, who just returned from North Africa and is now stationed at the AAF tactical center here, explained how it is done:

"One of our biggest morale problems has been the payment of men on time. Our bank operates on the front lines of the Air Force, usually the most forward airdrome, and in Africa we paid the men on time under dive-bombing and strafing attack. When men are paid it helps their morale perhaps more than anything else."

Col. Beals said that Air Force men were sending home millions of dollars every month by means of a new banking service called "personal transmission accounts." The service is entirely free, with no fees connected with it.

"When the men are paid they usually have a surplus from $10 to $50 which they wish their dependents, families or others to have," he said. "They turn the money over to the finance officer, and by means of a secret method checks are issued in the United States and delivered to families and dependents within 14 days after the man has been paid."

Scarcity of Cigarets, Lower Priced Growing; Prospect of Relief Is Slim

(By The Associated Press)

A growing scarcity of popular brand cigarettes and lowpriced cigars—attributed to labor shortages, early Christmas buying and heavy overseas shipments—was reported today in many cities throughout the nation.

Especially scarce were inexpensive cigars. The Cigar Institute of America said the normal reserves of cigars for Christmas sales were being sold now to meet heavy demands, and added that prospects were slim for obtaining extra supplies for the Yuletide.

There is widespread voluntary rationing of both cigars and cigarettes, an Associated Press survey showed.

Positions of Allies on Leros Island in Aegean Sea Critical

Nazis Reinforce Their Beachheads; News of Fighting in Italy

Cairo, Nov. 13.—(AP)—German forces attacking British and Italian troops on Leros island in the Aegean sea have succeeded in reinforcing their beachheads and are attempting to consolidate them despite heavy casualties, a Middle East communique announced today.

Long-range RAF fighters and bombers sped to the support of the beleaguered British garrison, the fighter planes strafing the German beachheads in long sweeps over the island, and bombers blasting away at nearby island bases from which Germany could rush reinforcements.

The Maritza airfield on the German-held island of Rhodes was hit heavily, Antimacchia airfield on nearby Cos island was raided twice during the night, and an enemy convoy was attacked in daylight yesterday near Antikythera island, which lies about midway between Crete and the Greek mainland. At least two vessels were hit, the British announcement said.

Confesses Brutal Murder of Girl, 4

Chicago, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Testifying yesterday at a coroner's inquest into the death of his 4-year-old stepdaughter, Lettie Weir, Jack William Shaffer said he struck the child three times with a razor strap, but a handkerchief in her mouth, ducked her in a tub containing eight, inches of water, and shoved her into a closet last Wednesday.

"I did the same thing with the boy," the 28-year-old railroad brakeman said, referring to a stepson, Tommy Weir, 5, who is recovering in a hospital.

He added he was nervous, the children in the house were noisy, and that Lettie "wouldn't sit down quietly to eat, as I told her to, and I lost my temper."

Shaffer, who is being held on an open charge, maintained his wife, Marie, "started the whole thing," because "she couldn't manage the children." The hearing was continued until Monday to establish the exact cause of Lettie's death.

School Notes
Plans are being made for the organization of a school orchestra, under the leadership of Rev. Mr. Montanus. Present arrangements provide for a group consisting of both high school and elementary students. For some time, at least, the work will consist mainly of individual and group instruction until enough individual progress has been made to permit playing together.

Several of the students now have instruments but others are trying to find instruments. The making of musical instruments has been restricted so that few are available for sale at the stores. If anyone in the community has an instrument they would care to sell or loan, will they please notify the school or Rev. Mr. Montanus.

Mr. Olsen from Josten's was at school November 10th to see the sophomores and seniors. The sophomores selected their rings and the seniors selected their announcements.

MODERNIZE YOUR GARAGE WITH A NEW OVERHEAD DOOR

Simple in operation . . . Just an effortless lift on the handle starts the easy, smooth, gliding action as the overhead door rolls upward

Now that winter is on the way, improvements like adding a new overhead door to your garage, would be in order. The door illustrated above is a big improvement over the old-type swinging doors. All of them are furnished with one section glazed and fitted with hardware. The doors are so constructed that they fit snug and that no hardware is exposed to the elements except the handle and lock. They are simple to install—instructions and diagram are packed with each unit. You'll find many Dixon home owners satisfied with this type of door, if you are interested and would care to investigate further.

MISS CARYL SCHRADER OF WALNUT WEDS SGT. OWEN C. HURST OF MANLIUS

Miss Caryl Schrader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schrader of Walnut, became the bride of Sgt. Owen C. Hurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hurst of Manlius, in a pretty wedding at the Christian church in Walnut at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. The Rev. E. V. Hallock read the single ring ceremony before a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

Palms and ferns decorated the chancel of the church with lighted candelabra on the altar and baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums forming the background. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. John Foss, Jr., played a program of nuptial music and accompanied Mr. Foss when he sang, "I Love You Truly" and "Always." The "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" was used for the processional and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" for the recessional.

The bride was lovely in a floor length gown of white chiffon velvet, made princess style with a long train and with a yoke of net trimmed in net ruching. The long sleeves came to a point over the hand. Her long veil was caught to her head with a bandeau of pearls. She carried a small white Bible, upon which rested a cluster of Johanna Hill roses, with a shower of white ribbons, knotted with tiny white pom-poms. Her only jewelry was a gold locket, the gift of the groom.

The maid of honor, Miss Leora Hurst, sister of the groom, wore a gown of pink chiffon and lace and carried a bouquet of bronze, yellow and white chrysanthemums. Her headress was a bandeau of flowers.

Four Bridesmaids
The bridesmaids were Miss Anita Cameron, of Walnut, cousin of the bride, and Miss Elaine Wilt of Walnut. Miss Phyllis Anderson of Chicago and Miss Denise Forman of Morrison, school friends of the bride. Miss Cameron and Miss Wilt wore pink taffeta gowns and carried yellow and white chrysanthemums. Miss Anderson and Miss Forman wore aqua taffeta, and also carried yellow and white chrysanthemums. The tiny flower girl, Marilyn Gallentine of Walnut, cousin of the bride, wore a floor length yellow taffeta dress and had Johanna Hill roses in her hair and carried a basket of yellow rose petals.

The groom was attended by a friend, Sgt. John Harbauer of Springfield, with whom he has been stationed at Fort Myers, Fla. Ushers were Lyle Schrader of Walnut and Conrad Schmidt of Manlius, cousins of the bride and groom, and Arthur Gallentine of Walnut, uncle of the bride.

Mrs. Schrader, mother of the bride, wore black crepe trimmed in sequins, and her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. Hurst, mother of the groom, wore soldier

Forty-Five Attend Wesleyan Society Scramble Supper

The November meeting of the Wesleyan society was held at the Methodist church this week with 45 members and friends in attendance. A scramble supper was served at tables tastefully decorated by the committee in charge, with autumn flowers and cornucopias of fruit.

The evening program presented by the committee in charge, headed by Miss Irma Grose, was opened by community singing led by Dr. Blewfield, with Mrs. Anna Buehler at the piano. A number of accordion selections were given by Dale Wickert. B. S. Schildberg gave a devotional number which was followed by Charles Hintz showing several very interesting reels of moving pictures depicting war scenes of the last year, and views at a circus performance.

Following this a brief business session was held and the evening was concluded with a football contest between a team of women and one of men, in which the men were victorious.

W.G.G.A. Has Banquet, Award Season's Trophies

A large U-shaped table was decorated with flowers and tall candles Thursday evening at Rainbow Inn, with members of W. G. G. A. in attendance for their end-of-the-season party and to award the season's trophies. Members of the Working Girls' Golf association have played games of golf each week at the Plum Hollow Golf and Country club during the summer, with committees arranging scramble suppers at the club house following the matches.

Tournament winners include Class A, Ethel Cline; Toni Hicks, runner-up; Class B, Janice Brant, winner; Fern Cline, runner-up; Class C, Gertrude Wallin; Yvonne Prestegard, runner-up, and Handicap, Kathryn Herman was the winner, and Ethel Cline was runner-up.

Adelaide Johnson has been named chairman for the 1944 season.

WACS ARRIVE IN NORTH AFRICA

Algiers, Nov. 13—(AP)—Pvt. Lorraine Gaines of Danville, Ill., with the fifth company of WACS to arrive in North Africa, piled off a train in a driving rain Armistice day after a long trip from the debarkation point during which the WACS slept on bunks set up by placing boxes between the coach seats. "Right now, commented Private Gaines, "we are interested most in getting a bath and getting into some clean clothes."

Her company arrived in time to see other WAC units marching in a big Armistice day parade. Her unit, trained for Signal Corps assignment, is commanded by Capt. Horstense M. Boutell of Minneapolis.

Legion Auxiliary to Aid Service Men's Centers

The American Legion auxiliary held its regular meeting in Legion hall on Nov. 10. National Defense chairman, Connie Wood, has been called upon to solicit contributions for the service men's centers at Chicago, which are entirely maintained by Chicago and surrounding towns. They are not connected in any way with the USO, and receive no allocation of funds from that source. The project has grown so tremendously that more than 150,000 service men are entertained weekly, states Mrs. Wood.

The Freeman Shoe company is preparing a box as well as the American Legion auxiliary, to send to these centers. Individual groups have been asked to donate to this cause and are asked to take their donations to the Legion hall Saturday, Nov. 20, at which time the box will be packed and mailed. Suggested articles needed other than cash donations are: Shaving cream, soap and lotion; tooth paste, powder brushes; shoe polish, talcum powder and toilet soap; razors and blades; table games for the lounge, library and game rooms; checkers, chess, monopoly, playing cards and puzzles; sheet music and phonograph records (recordings since 1940); magazines, books, post cards and personal greeting cards for the boys to send to loved ones. For use in canteen: Candy bars, gum, wrapped candies, homemade cookies, cakes and candies as well as cigarettes.

The American Legion has extended an invitation to the Auxiliary to meet with them in joint session for a program arranged for Nov. 17. All members of the auxiliary are requested to be present.

HIGHLAND AVENUE CLUB IS PLANNING CHRISTMAS PARTY

Mrs. Albert Petit was hostess to members of the Highland Avenue club at her home on Patrick court Tuesday evening. Games of buncle were played with prizes being awarded to Mrs. Norman Dietrich, Mrs. John Bennett and Mrs. L. W. Emmert. A delicious luncheon concluded the evening.

The next meeting will be held on Dec. 14, and will be the Christmas party for club members, and is to be held at the home of Mrs. Dietrich. The ladies have an excellent idea this year, for they plan to bring to the Christmas meeting money that would have been spent for their exchange gifts, and this will then be added to the Lee county war fund.

ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION
The Blackhawk Chapter Alumnae association of N. I. S. T. C. will meet Tuesday evening, Nov. 16, at the home of Miss Marie Moore, 714 East Chamberlain, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. F. L. Blewfield will be the speaker for the evening.

THIRD BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED BY SALLY MELVIN

Little Miss Sally Jo Melvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle R. Melvin, 422 East Fellows, celebrated her third birthday with a party for a group of her young friends Thursday afternoon. The young guests played with toys during the afternoon and then had refreshments from a table decorated in parlottic colors.

Tommy and Sarah Brader, Mary Kay Eller, Douglas and Rex Potter, David Knouse, Louise Joyce, Joyce Cooper, Kenneth and Brenda Jo Swan, Jimmy Myers, Linda Sodagren, Sally's brother, Bud, and the young guests' mothers were present. Judy Lynn and Carol Sue Schreiner were unable to attend.

Large Attendance at Candlelighters Tea and Program

The Candlelighters organization of the Presbyterian church entertained yesterday afternoon with a program and Silver Tea at the church. A short program was opened by Rev. B. B. Cartwright, Jr., pastor, which was followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. Henry Pollock, a reading by Mrs. Dora B. Hughes, and a one-act play, "A Call to Service," which was presented by members of the Candlelighters.

Tea was served in the church parlors from a beautifully decorated table which held as its centerpiece a silver basket filled with chrysanthemums and snapdragons. Tall ivory tapers were at either side. Mrs. W. H. Morris and Miss Agnes Raymond poured. A gift sale, held during the tea hour, was in charge of Miss Cora Persson.

GOLDEN RULE CLASS

The Golden Rule class of St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet at the home of Miss Bernice Good, 1208 South Peoria avenue, Tuesday evening at 7:45. The hostesses will be Miss Alma Koester and Miss Caroline Reinke. Each member is asked to bring some favorite poem to be read at the meeting.

Book Review Will Be Given by Mrs. Chas. Johnston

Mrs. Charles F. Johnston, Jr. of Dixon will present a review of the book "Kathrine" by Hans Habe for the Dixon Woman's club next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Loveland Community House. The series of five such programs is under the sponsorship of the literature department which is headed by Mrs. Adolph Eichler. This will be the second review of the year.

The book which Mrs. Johnston will give is modern historical fiction. It deals with the cause of the downfall of France and shows especially the laxity among the younger generation.

The author, Hans Habe, was an Austrian, and he wrote the book in the German language from which it was translated into English by Harry Hanson. His background has given him a keen understanding of the philosophy that pervaded France during the years of preparation for war.

The book reviews are free to the public and non-members need not be a special guest of a Woman's club member in order to attend.

G. A. R. LADIES TO ENTERTAIN

Ladies of the G. A. R. will entertain the department president, Josie Frey, of Decatur, on Monday evening in G. A. R. hall at a scramble dinner at 6:30 o'clock. Chicken and noodles will be furnished by the circle, and each member is to furnish a dish to pass, and own service. Following the dinner there will be a meeting and the president has asked that each member be present.

The Palmyra Home Bureau meeting that was postponed on Thursday, will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at the home of Mrs. Robert Straw at 1:30 o'clock.

PARENTS OF A SON

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Loomis are the parents of a son born on Nov. 9, instead of a daughter as previously announced.

BALDWIN AUXILIARY

Baldwin Auxiliary will have a scramble supper Tuesday evening at G. A. R. hall at 6:30 o'clock.

MONDAY NIGHTERS

Mrs. Albert Koehler will be hostess to the Monday Nighters at her home, 1324 West First street, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A Thought for Today
Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He

By night an atheist half believes a God.
—Young.

Is Goose Sauce Right for the Gander?
Whenever a man wants to be inconsistent for personal reasons, he falls back on the saying that "Consistency is a vice of small minds." Or else
he argues that rules are made for the purpose of being violated. Or he proclaims that exceptions are necessary to prove a rule.

Let us look at some of the inconsistencies of the radicals.
A simple majority is enough to approve a measure in congress. The house of representatives may approve a bill by a slim majority. The bill then goes to the senate, which is almost equally divided.
It finally squeaks through by a majority of a single vote. In such a case it might be said that a single man has legislated for the United States of America. If the bill is a radical measure, the pinks will not complain about a simple majority rule. It is a fine thing because it works in their favor in that instance.

But if some citizen challenges the new law
after it has been signed by the president, it eventually will come before the Supreme court. The Supreme court, in the phraseology of the pinks, consists of nine old men. Four of them may believe the law constitutional even though pinkish. Four others may believe it violates the Constitution. The decision, therefore, hangs on the judgment of the ninth gray-beard. He decides the law is unconstitutional.
It is tossed out of the window.

Immediately the pinks set up a howl and weep
buckets of tears over the fact that one old man can override the "laws of the land." In other words, it is proper to have a system by which one man
can commit all of congress to approval of a law;
but highly immoral to have a system by which one
justice of the Supreme court can unmake a law.
But then, consistency is a vice for small minds.

If congress approves a conservative measure
by simple majorities in both houses, it then goes to the White House for the president's signature. If the president is a radical he may veto the measure.
In such a case the radicals will not grow indignant
over the fact that one man has been able to nullify
the will of a majority in congress.

Let's see where we are, now! It is proper for one man to be able to throw the legislative balance in favor of a law, but it is wrong for one man in the Supreme court to nullify it, and it is all right for one man in the White House to veto it. Consistency is a vice for small minds.

Immediately after receiving a veto message,
each house of congress can vote on proposals to override the veto. But it takes a two-thirds majority to override a veto. If the bill is a conservative measure vetoed by a radical president, the pinks
will not complain that it takes two-thirds of both houses to override the wishes of one man if that one man happens to be in the White House. If he happens to be in the Supreme court, however, the simple majority business is a crime. Are you dizzy yet?

For years many gentlemen of pinkish hue have argued that a constitutional amendment should be adopted making it impossible for a law to be invalidated by anything less than a unanimous vote,
or at least a two-thirds vote, in the Supreme court.
In other words, it is a virtue of democracy that a simple majority is enough in congress for a law;
it is obviously correct for a single man in the white

The Doctor's Daughters

By FAITH BALDWIN

THE STORY: When Jim Thompson
becomes Doctor Hall's assistant,
he joins the Hall household.
Nancy Hall, spoiled and bored, is flattered by his attentions but cannot forget Drew Warner. Mrs.
Hall would like Nancy to encourage wealthy Frank Edgar. Edgar, however, seems more interested in the other daughter, Emily, a visiting nurse intent on her job.
Emily goes out on a case with Jim.

THE PARTY WAS DULL

CHAPTER XII
NANCY was out when they reached home.
Jim and Emily ate in the kitchen,
over Ellen's protest. Cold roast beef, a salad, biscuits and preserves, custard, iced tea.

"Them biscuits was fresh baked," said Ellen with menace.
"Now they're stone cold."
"Heat 'em up," said Emily cheerfully. "I'm so hungry I could eat bricks. I don't know why, I had an elegant lunch at the Lobster Pot."

"What's that?" asked Jim.
"Oh, we'll have to take you
there some time," she said, "I forgot you didn't know. I ran into Frank and he insisted I was lunch time, and I was weak, and went."

Jim grinned at her over a large forkful.
"Frank?" he said. "Cutting Nancy out, are you?"
"Don't be silly." But to her annoyance, she felt the color rising.

He was instantly very cheerful.
He raged Ellen, untied her apron strings, demanded more tea and another custard.

"What in the world," demanded Millicent, entering the kitchen, "is this all about?"
"Frank Edgar," said Jim solemnly. "He's paying court to my Emily."
"Don't be ridiculous," said Emily shortly.

"He took her to lunch," explained Jim, "and she's going to house to override a majority of congress, but it is the crime of the century that the Supreme court should be able to invalidate a law by anything less than a two-thirds opinion. Are you dere, Sharlie?

Who wants to be consistent, anyhow?
For some time the experimenters have wished that a treaty could be approved by a simple majority of congress instead of requiring, as at present, a two-thirds majority of the senate. If it is all right for a treaty committing the lives, fortunes and sacred honor of millions of Americans to be ratified by one lone United States senator, then why is it not a good thing that a veto of the president could be overridden by a simple majority of both houses of congress? Huh?

There is just one thing apparent about this consistency (or inconsistency) of the pinks and other experimenters. They are consistent in opposing the rules whenever they work in favor of the American way of life. In that they are damnable consistent.

Call It Oleo

Whatever decision the house of representatives
may reach in the butter-oleomargarine controversy,
there is one aspect of the situation that probably will remain as confused as ever. That is the problem of how to pronounce margarine.

Margarine is derived (that is, the word, not the product) from the Latin margarita, meaning pearl, which in turn stems from the Greek mar-garon, also meaning pearl. Both root words are pronounced with a hard g, as in Margaret, not a soft one, as in Marjorie. Yet almost all of us pronounce it as if it were spelled with a j.

Dictionaries held out for a long time against public pressure. But the latest edition of the Merriam-Webster only adds to the confusion. It gives the word margarin, which is a concoction of fats
and greases, as being pronounced with a hard g.
But when it adds a final e to the word, and specifies
in the definition that the margarin is the kind you spread on bread, then it gives two choices of pronunciation, with the soft g first.

Our own research, carried out with an expenditure of time all out of proportion to the subject's importance, has discovered no precedent for a soft g preceding an a.

Reports from the house butter-margarine committee hearings offer no solution, but do suggest a compromise. It seems that all congressmen and some oleomargarine experts use the popular, or soft g, pronunciation. Purists, especially those from the OPA, bravely give it the hard g as in Margaret.

But the butter men scornfully refer to the rival spread as oleo. In fact, when they want to be particularly derisive, they have been heard to refer to the product as oley.

Uncle Joe

Louis Bromfield, the eminent novelist and practical farmer, has turned newspaper columnist. The other day he wrote a piece about "Uncle Joe,"
which explored and explained the growing popularity of Premier Joseph Stalin with the ordinary,
cross-roads American.

It was a good piece. But along in the middle, Squire Bromfield says this: "And 'Uncle Joe' hasn't gotten into a muddle like the one in North Africa and the one in Italy. He hasn't played ball with Darlans and Badoglio. He has always had a policy ready when the emergency arrived."

Let's see, wasn't it "Uncle Joe" who played a little ball with his Nazi neighbors while France fell and England rocked under the blitzkrieg? And didn't "Uncle Joe" have a handy policy of friendship and non-aggression with those same Nazi neighbors?
And didn't the policy look a little ineffectual when the neighbors moved in, almost to the gates of Moscow and Leningrad?

Or was that two other guys named Joe?

Two Pairs of Pants

In a judgment worthy of Solomon, a Memphis
judge has reconciled, at least for his own community,
the growing independence of war-working womanhood with the ancient doctrine of male supremacy.

He has ruled that women may wear slacks, but they are not to appear in public in men's trousers.
So Memphis needs no longer wonder who wears the pants in its households. The answer is: Mama and Papa.

"Where'd Nancy go?"
"Oh, out with her gang," Emily replied vaguely. "It seems to me that I heard something about a beach picnic."

He asked abruptly,
"Why don't you ever go along?"
"Are you being sorry for me?"
she said, quickly. "You needn't be. I don't want to, really. Nancy always asks me, but—well, I don't not that I don't go now and then.
But I can't racket around all night
and feel like work the next morning."

His call at the hospital was brief, he came smiling to the car
where Emily waited.
"Everything all right," he announced.

When they drove in Nancy was sitting on the steps waiting for them. She said, as they came from the garage together,
"Where in time have you been?"

Jim explained, and Nancy commented,
"Doesn't sound like much fun.
Might much better have been on the picnic with us." She looked up at Emily who had paused on the steps beside her. "Frank told me he took you to lunch," she said.

"So he did, and a very good one, too," Emily assured her.
"Unlike you, isn't it?" asked Nancy carelessly, "mixing business with pleasure?"
She rose before Emily could answer, yawned, stretched her arms above her head. "It's a marvelous night," she said. "Jim, why can't you take us for a drive?"

"Sorry," he said. "There may be some calls and even doctors have to be careful of gas."

"I'm off to bed," Emily told them, "good night, you two." She went on in the house and upstairs to see her father. But the light from the living room had given her a clear view of Nancy's pretty face, provocative, and rebellious, turned to Jim. Her light voice followed Emily through the hall,
"Must you always think of work
... the party was dull, so I came home. ..."

Fair Enough

by
WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York.—A few nights ago
a radio oracle intimated that Carol, the twice abdicated King of Rumania, now sojourning in Mexico City was of a mind to come to the United States, that he had engaged a specialist in such matters to make propaganda among us preparatory to this move and that, in some undefined way, there was something sinister, if not downright dastardly, about all this. The next day, I received a phone call from Russell Birdwell, a press-agent or public relations man, in fine, a propagandist, with a Hollywood background who desired an interview
which has now taken place. Mr.
Birdwell spoke earnestly for an hour and left with me a number of typewritten documents, and a request that, if I saw King Carol so, I present him to my clientele
as a statesman, not a superan-nated playboy, the author of many fine social and political reforms during his second term of 10 years on the throne, a lover of freedom and justice, and the ideal man to rally the subjugated and betrayed people of his old kingdom in the role of ruler in exile, preferably with headquarters in the U. S. A.

For a number of reasons, including the fact that royal intrigue and international political propaganda are out of my line, I am unable to assist Mr. Birdwell in his mission, but I think you might be interested in hearing
how such operations are conducted.

To comply with our laws, Birdwell had to register with the department of justice as an agent of a foreign principal and the copies of the propaganda releases which he left with me contain a declaration that the same have been filed there too.

They are very complimentary to Carol, presenting him in a new light to a public which has read of him only as a hell-raising, royal rake and they deny reports which, incidentally, I never saw,
that he took 40 million dollars and the art treasures of the kingdom with him when he left home
for Spain, where he was detained six months, en route to Havana and then Mexico City. On the contrary, Birdwell writes, the king got away with less than a million, lives in a most rented dwelling with three bedrooms, and two baths but no closets, thus having to store his baggage on the porch, has one maid servant,
has not lost enormously at poker
nor ever played poker any whatever and did not buy an interest in a night club in Mexico City.

On the truth or relevancy of any of these matters I cannot pass judgment but I do get the irony of a situation in which a European king resorts to the same softening method that in the past has been employed by such lesser dignitaries as Consul the Monk, Primo Carnera, and the French industrial speed-up engineer, whose name for the moment I can't remember, who should. Traditionally, the United States has waived
all ordinary formalities at the immigration and customs stations
for visiting European monarchs, including a number of current guests and one, the Duke of Windors, who, like Carol, is ex.
Carol, however, met nothing but delays in his requests for permission to come aboard and so with the knowledge of our government
he hires an American press-agent to discover his virtues with the purpose that public opinion here will press our department of state to let him in and give him the status of a government in exile
and an honorable member of the visiting company of anti-nazis.

Is it then, that he is undesirable
because he was a rouser, even,
if you insist a boulder in his merry days in Paris? Is it that he drank intoxicants in public and sassed his maw? If those were formidable objections, our refugee set would be scarcely a squad, not that army that it is. But if it is that Russia seems about to capture Rumania and has intentions which Carol does not fit, that could be understood to explain why the U. S. A. not wishing to offend a loyal ally, has kept him
scuffing his soles on the doormat
all this time.

Time was when Birdwell, doing fires, killings, and all such city-side chores on New York papers, might have been sent around to the tradesmen's door when calling on the least of Europe's kings.
Now a king pays his way to and from Mexico City and a dollar or two beside to tell the people of the U. S. A. that he is more than a little bit of all right, though royal.

HOME
There's a little white house
Standing down by the mill,
It isn't so much to see,
But the folks that live
In that little white house
Are very dear to me

There's a feeble old man
In that house by the mill,
He is my dear old dad,
There's a sweet old lady
Laying there too,
The best mother one ever had.

I'm on my way now
To that little white house
And I feel just like a boy
For going to visit
The old home folks
Is a trip I always enjoy.

WHO WILL BE NEXT

This war is getting worse
The announcer said today.
If we buy more bonds and stamps
We can win the war that way.

Our boys are over there fighting
Fighting for us back here.
If we pitch in and help
A victory will be near.

Gather up your scrap folks
Throw that old car in the junk,
And before you hardly know it
Another ship is sunk.

I'll do the field work, you do the chores
We'll get along somehow.
Won't brother be surprised to hear
That I've learned to plow.

The old town looks so bare now
There leaving one by one.
Almost every day it seems
We give another son.

Your sweetheart hates to leave
For he is next to go.
But with your help back here
We'll win the war I know.

In work or play let's do our part
As patriotic as we know how.
Our sweethearts and brothers can come back
If we all work hard right now.

MY SHADOW

I get so mad at my shadow,
He follows me all day,
Is always right behind me,
I can't chase him away.

I shake my finger at him,
He shakes his back at me,
I stomp my foot, and he stomps
his.

He is mean as he can be.
But when I go into the house
And climb up on a chair,
I look around for my shadow
And can't find him anywhere.

I think, "Now I've lost him,
I won't see him any more;
But soon as I go out again
He's with me as before.

Well, I guess I'll put up with him
And not chase him away.
After all he is quite a bit like me,
And we never quarrel like we play.

THE SOLDIER

(Composed by Norma Donoho, aged 11 years, of Woosung)

I know a man, I like him well,
He went away to the army to dwell.

One year ago he went away.
It was a bright, warm sunny day.
He went to camp and stayed a few days.

But soon he was shipped away
quite a ways.
Soon, Christmas will come and
he won't be here
But we'll know he's helping the old U. S. dear.
So let's give three cheers for the soldier so brave.
They're working so hard so Old Glory may wave.

TELL THEM

By Daniel B. Straley

Oh winds, that sweep the tropic deep
And stir the island palms.
Cooling the fevered brow of man
And breaking torrid calms.
Whisper, softly whisper,
To the fallen in their graves
Upon the blossomed islands
And beneath the spangled waves
That America is grateful
For the sacrifice they made,
And that brutal Nippon treachery
Will with martial wrath be fayed.

Whisper, to them whisper,
Of the tears that love has shed,
And of a free-born nation
Grieving for her valiant dead.
Tell them, winds, Oh tell them,

W. C. T. U. MEETING

Members and invited guests of the local Woman's Christian Temperance Union enjoyed a program of unusual interest at their monthly meeting on Tuesday at the Methodist church.

The general theme for study was "Protecting the Home Front." Mrs. R. S. Wilson, as leader of the devotional period,
used the 67th Psalm as the basis
of her remarks, which is a prayer of Thanksgiving for home and country and for the enlargement of God's kingdom on earth. The speaker gave excerpts from a forceful article in a recent issue of a religious journal, a part of which we will quote.

"While America is winning in this global war America is losing moral and spiritual victories on the home front."

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the F. B. I., says: "I am not easily shocked nor easily alarmed. But today, like thousands of others, I am both shocked and alarmed.
The arrests of teen-age boys and girls are staggering — it is an ugly situation. If we are to correct it, we must face it. This country is in deadly peril. We can win this war, and still lose our freedom for all in America. For a creeping rot of moral disintegration is eating into our nation.
Some of the crimes youngsters
are committing are unspeakable.
Prostitution, murder, rape. These are ugly words, but it is an ugly situation. You read in the news columns of the most flagrant cases. These are not isolated horror stories from another world.
They are danger signals which every parent—every responsible American—should heed. In the last year, seventeen per cent more boys under 21 were arrested for assault than the year before, 26
per cent more for drunkenness, ten per cent more for rape. And that despite the fact that many of this age group had already gone to war or were productively employed. For girls, the figures are even more startling: Thirty-nine per cent more for drunkenness, 64 per cent more for disorderly conduct, 124 per cent more for vagrancy. And these were only the ones who were arrested
— the advanced cases."

"Unsettled homes, confusion,
restlessness, taverns, road houses,
movies and the 'last fling' philosophy of life are destroying our foundations. The pillars of our freedoms are rotting.

Judge Bicek of Chicago in his annual report on the juvenile court said: "Sex delinquency is becoming the most serious juvenile problem.

Claude A. Watson, Prohibition party vicepresidential nominee in 1936 has said: "I know of one high school on the Pacific coast
that in the last school year, 1942-
'43, had over 600 expectant mothers. Just a sample case of what prevails throughout the nation."

Mrs. A. E. Marth, out of her rich experience as mother of four children, gave a "heart to heart"
talk on "Home, the Place for Moral Training." She said in part: "In a recent questionnaire which the Prairie Farmer sent to home advisors, asking their opinion of the cause of juvenile delinquency, 98% of the answers stated that it was caused by adult delinquency. Is it possible for a mother to work all day in a war
plant and meet her responsibility to her growing children? Great Britain realized the seriousness of this problem and mothers of children under 14 are not registered for war employment. It has been found more practical to subsidize mothers of small children if need be, in order that they may stay home and take care of their offspring."

And this statement comes from the U. S. Department of Labor at Washington: "Mothers with children under 16 years of age should be the fifth and last class of employable women to be put to work in war factories. Mothers of young children can make no finer contribution to the strength of the nation and its vitality and effectiveness for the future than to assure their children the security of home, individual care
and affection."

However, in spite of these recommendations, crime authorities are reporting an alarming increase in juvenile delinquency. It is time for America to awake to the realization that the homes of our nation must be restored.
What shall it profit America if we win the war and lose the generation that is to carry on after the war?

The life of the child is affected by his environment which the home furnishes during the plastic years of his life. Children are molded by the sentiments, opinions and moral standards which prevail where they live, and eat and sleep. How important that they be real Christian homes! It is in the home that children should get their first and most enduring ideas of God, where prayer is offered, the Bible read and studied, and hymns of the church are sung.

The speaker closed with this thought: The home is the world's greatest university and the parents are the greatest teachers.

A musical number by a trio—
Mrs. Ora Tice, Mrs. A. L. Palmer
and Mrs. Lillian Derr was much enjoyed. The theme of the song was, "I'll Love My Saviour More and More."

The closing speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. H. W. Leydig, had been assigned the topic "The Menace of Juvenile Delinquency". Her paper indicated she had spent much time and thought in its preparation, and treated the subject from the local point of view, having interviewed several of our city's officials as to conditions here. During the discussion period, the members gave expression to their opinions on this subject by relating some personal unpleasant experiences of damaged property, thefts, and disturbances on the streets at late hours by teen-age and younger children. Then, too, we cannot forget the shameful doings in Oakwood cemetery before Hallowe'en by high school students.
We wonder—did the parents know or care?

In mentioning remedies, Mrs.
Leydig reminded us that Dixon has no supervised recreation center such as many cities do have.
That is something badly needed here and would help in part to solve the youth problem.

Many citizens are asking, "why has Dixon's curfew bell long since ceased to ring?"

We have not heard that our city council has revoked the cur-few law, so it must still be on the books, and we, the members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union respectfully ask and urge our city council to order curfew bell to ring again. And please, let it not only be rung—
but let us have the ordinance enforced to the letter.

Governor Kelly of Michigan says on the crime problem, the time for talk is ended, time for definite action is past due. So Detroit and all Michigan are making an all-out effort to study
and combat juvenile delinquency.
Should not Dixon follow and become a city of which we may be proud.

Notre Dame Closes Collegiate Phase of Its Schedule Today

Invade Evanston for Wildcats Contest; Other Grid News

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Yale will end its football season today but what is probably more important to the 1943 gridiron fanatic is that Notre Dame will close the collegiate phase of its 10-game program.

The South Bend Ramblers are to invade Evanston, Ill., today and are favored to make Northwestern their eighth consecutive college victim. After that come the Iowa Seahawks and the Great Lakes Sailors, a pair of good teams leavened with professionals.

Today's Evanston struggle will pit Otto Graham, one of the best all-around backs of the year, against the Irish and although he may make it close hardly any of the expected 48,000 spectators believe the Wildcats will repeat their surprise win of 1935.

While a Notre Dame defeat would be a major upset, it is not unlikely that Southern California, erstwhile member of the unbeaten list, will absorb its second straight whipping. Spilled last week by San Diego Naval, the Trojans must tangle with March field today and find a way of stopping Jack Jacobs.

Other Title at Stake

Pennsylvania, with Bob Odell ailing, entertains North Carolina, Navy disembarks at Columbia and Army hopes to get by Sampson, N. Y., Naval station, a collection of former greats coached by Dr. Mal Stevens.

Cornell and Dartmouth continue their ancient rivalry at Boston and Princeton helps close the ELI season with the championship of the Big Three at stake.

Other titles also will be on the line. Missouri entertains Oklahoma with the Big Six crown going to the winner and in the south Georgia Tech and Tulane dispute the Southeastern conference laurels.

In the midwest Purdue's powerhouse will be idle but Michigan will stay in the Big Ten title scrap by opposing Wisconsin while Illinois and Ohio state will entertain 40,000 in Columbus, Indiana's civilians aren't expected to impede Great Lakes too much and Iowa will be after its first win of the season at Minnesota.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 13.—(AP)—A sell-out throng of 48,500 was assured today as Notre Dame, the nation's top-ranking team, met its oldest sectional football rival, Northwestern.

Although the Wildcats have a fine passer and ball-carrier in Otto Graham, who scored 27 points against Wisconsin a week ago, the Irish were favored by at least three touchdowns. If Notre Dame wins, it will be victory No. 8 in a drive for its first undefeated and untied season since 1930.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The pro-packed Iowa Seahawks, one of the country's few unbeaten and untied teams, sought victory No. 8 today against Camp Grant. A crowd of about 5,000 was expected to watch the pre-flighters try to preserve their perfect record for their meeting next week with Notre Dame.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 13.—(AP)—With its line weakened by injuries to keymen, Indiana's problem today was that of giving its ace passer, freshman Bob Hoernschmeyer, ample protection for his throws against the aggressive Great Lakes Bluejacks.

Seeking their eighth win in 10 starts, the Sailors were heavily favored. A crowd of 10,000 was expected for the game.

Columbus, O., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Illinois and Ohio State tangle on the gridiron for the 32nd time today, with the Bucks—1942 Western Conference champions—needing a victory to get out of the league cellar.

Of the previous 31 games Ohio has won 17, lost 12 and tied two, and the Bucks were slight favorites to win this one. In conference play this season the Bucks have dropped three in a row, while the Illini have won two of four starts.

About 40,000 fans were expected to half fill the Buckeye Stadium for the homecoming clash. Coach Ray Elliot of Illinois and Coach Paul Brown of Ohio State came up with almost identical pre-game statements, tenor of both being "I don't see how we can win".

Minneapolis, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Minnesota was favored to break its three-game losing string today by grabbing a victory from the University of Iowa. A crowd of about 25,000 was expected for the 37th meeting of the two Big Ten teams since 1891. The Gophers have won 27 games and lost nine in the series.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Michigan will endeavor to move one step nearer the Western Conference football championship by subduing underdog Wisconsin today for its fifth successive Big Ten victory. A slim 15,000 crowd was predicted for

With high scoring Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch out with a shoulder injury, once defeated Michigan wasn't the overwhelming pre-game favorite it was expected to be, but the Wolverines nevertheless were conceded to have too much power for the once-victorious Badgers, who haven't scored in a month.

Coach Fritz Crisler declared Hirsch out of action yesterday and announced Bob Nussbaumer would replace him. With two other lineup changes, the former Wisconsin boys in the Michigan lineup were reduced to five, less than a majority. Michigan obviously was taking no chances with Hirsch before the important Ohio State game next week.

Alsab in Attempted Comeback at Pimlico

Baltimore, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Alsab will attempt today to make the first major addition to his $347,315 bankroll in more than a year.

Mrs. Albert Sabath's fourth largest money winner of all time faced a field of 11 other horses as he is seeking a comeback in the $15,000-added Bryan & O'Hara Memorial Handicap at Pimlico.

The Sab was a slight favorite in the early odds, but he faced at least four other capable performers who attracted considerable support in the wagering: Calumet Park's Son of Peace, George D. Widener's good filly Stefania, William W. Snyder's Mokabine and Kieft (J. G.) Alfred Gwynne.

By "FRIDAY"

In the Major league last night the Dixon Recreation five increased their lead in first to three games by making a clean sweep of their series with Dixon Point. Cy Winebrenner led the alley team with 597, and Vorhis was the best Painter with 507.

Hub Tavern pulled into a tie for second by winning three from New Bridge Inn, knotting it up with Duling's at 16 won and 11 lost. W. Klein led the way for the Hub with 593 and Carl Becker had 543 for the New Bridges.

To hold their share of second Duling's won two from Myers Royal Blue with Jim Bigger leading the way for Duling's with 586, and Eldon Myers, heading the Grocers with 519.

Lepperd Motors was the other two-game winner, over Van Dams. Frank Lessner was high for the latter with 584, and Lyle Melvin led the Garagemen with 542.

No "600" series were rolled last night, but two keggers came within one spare of it with Cy Winebrenner having 597, and Walt Klein rolling 593.

Nine 200 games were counted as follows: W. Klein, 240; Jim Bigger, 234; Frank Lessner, 234; John Smith, 213; Lyle Melvin, 211; Fallstrom, 211; Hartman, 207; Winebrenner, 201-212.

We glanced up yesterday and thought Santa Claus had come, but it was Staff Sgt. Earl Slagle, Jr., with his barracks bag over his shoulder who had stopped in on his way home to say hello to his former co-workers. Junior, a former member of the Telegraph team of the Commercial league is home on a 10-day furlough from his field in Wilmington, N. Car.

If you've noticed the coolness between Frank Daschbach and Bill James here's the reason. Bill walked into his billiard parlor recently and noticed several full jars of roasted peanuts on the shelf. Thinking of the Missus he told Frank to give him one to take home, and being handed one in a sack he trudged off home where he handed them to the wife with "Here, mother, is something you like." But he was startled a minute later to hear Mrs. James say, slightly sarcastic, "My, but you're getting generous!" And a glance at the jar showed two lone peanuts. Now Daschbach claims it was a mistake, but Bill has his doubts, and the feud is on.

In the men's doubles following the Major league, twenty-two-man teams entered and the top spots were taken over by: first, L. Vorhis-F. Daschbach, 1243; second, M. Miller-N. Giannoni, 1236; third, F. Baugh-A. Tiritilli, 1197; fourth, L. Smith-H. Channess, 1192; fifth, E. Hill-M. Rosebrook, 1188; sixth, Joe Sweeney-H. Diebert, 1180, and seventh, Al Wolfe-John Lange, 1178.

Al Wolfe-John Lange turned in the most actual pins rolling 1118 without their handicap. L. Vorhis rolled the best single game with 226 in his second effort.

Only one 400 game was turned in last night, the Vorhis-Daschbach combine hitting it in their last effort.

Some fellows get the hunting fever this time of year. Van Doren is one of them and last night he must have had his mind on pheasants, so we give him the bird.

GENERAL KENNEY—His Bombers Raid Rabaul

Aug. 1942. Made chief of Allied air forces, Southwest Pacific, directly under MacArthur.

WHAT the Allied air forces have done at Guadalcanal, at Buna, at Lae, at Rabaul, everywhere in the Southwest Pacific is traceable to plans laid by kindly-eyed, battle-haired Lieut.-Gen. George C. Kenney, General MacArthur's air arm. Now 54, the five-foot, six-inch Nova Scotia-born general worked up from buck private in the years since 1917. He's intensely practical, believes in hitting the foe hard in one place, tells his men in a warm, rumbling voice, "Deception is the trick. Mystify, cross the enemy up. Above all, don't get in a groove." Kenney favors medium bombers and skip bombing over torpedo planes and dive bombers. The Bismarck Sea battle in which his flyers destroyed an entire Jap fleet with skip bombing tactics makes him look right, at least for his particular problems. Kenney's offices are part of MacArthur's GHQ. They pop in on one another unannounced. He's a technical man as well as an airman, besides the Air Service Engineering School, Kenney studied at M. I. T. His mathematical background lends sincerity to his remark: "The difficult we do immediately; the impossible takes a little longer."

Zivic Loses Again to Jake LaMotta in New York's Garden

BY SID FEDER

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Fritzie Zivic feels pretty frisky this morning.

He feels so frisky, in fact, that he stood right up in meeting to have a laugh at all those "smarties" who've been reciting his obituaries here lately and to announce that unless Uncle Sam has other ideas, he'll fight for at least one more year before retiring to read a book.

What's more, the first guy the veteran of 13 years and 177 fights want to go to work on is awkward Jake LaMotta, the young Bronx belter, who squaked through to a narrow split ten-round decision in Madison Square Garden last night in the "rubber" match of their series. Fritz-Eroo yelled for this return so loudly that promoter Mike Jacobs went into an immediate huddle with him, over a fourth taffy pull between the two in the Garden December 17.

Although young Jake won the fight last night, Flatnose won the crowd by putting up a whale of a war in spite of the 11½ pound weight edge LaMotta was sporting and Jake's younger legs which did the heavy work down the stretch.

Right now, however, Uncle Sam has the big say about just where Fritz is going to hang his hat. The last of the Five Flying Zivics reports for his draft board "screen test" Sunday. Until then he's shutting up his business office.

Steel Workers to Take Strike Votes in Five Big Plants on Tuesday

Cleveland, O., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Members of the CIO United Steelworkers union will take a strike vote in 5 plants of the American Steel & Wire Company, next Tuesday, Ray Jablonski, chairman of the five locals, announced.

Plants affected include those at Joliet, Ill., Trenton, N. J., and Pittsburgh, Pa. The company also has plants at Waukegan, Ill., Duluth, Minn., and New Haven, Conn.

Jablonski said the men sought wage increases from $1.17 to $1.45, and added that 200 unionists agreed on the vote "because the company is stalling on union demands".

MARKETS

Chicago Livestock

Chicago, Nov. 13.—(AP)—A heavy run of hogs here and at all other livestock markets broke prices sharply this week, although the price for 200 to 270 pound good and choice offerings did not fall below the government support level of $13.75 a hundred pounds.

In the usual light Saturday trade, prices were quoted nominally steady. Average price yesterday was $13.34 against $14.15 a week ago and $14.08 a year ago.

The weakness in the hog pens was matched with declines in cattle during the week, with the slaughtering facilities of most packers held up fairly well, losing only 15 to 25 cents, but all other classes dropped between 50 cents and $1.00; most excessive marketing developed in the cow division.

All slaughter classes in the sheep division were little changed at the end of the week.

(WTA)—Slaughtering hogs 1,500, total 3,500; steady on all weights and sows; good and choice 200-70 lbs 13.75; medium to good 150 lbs 12.00; other weights barrows and gilts scarce; sows 12.85@13.00; good clearance; shippers took 500; compared week ago 200-70 lbs 35 @50 lower; weights over 270 lbs 50@75 lower; weights under 200 lbs 75@1.00 lower; sows 85@1.00 lower.

Slaughtering cattle 1,000; calves 400 compared Friday last week; choice to prime fed steers 15@25 lower; all others 50 to 1.00 down, mostly 50@75 off; fat heifers showed comparable downturn; stockers and feeders 25@50 off, mostly 50, weakened sympathetically by decline in slaughter cattle; excessive run cows 50 to 1.00 down; heavy sausage bulls 25 down; light and medium weight offerings 50@75 off; vealers steady at 15.00 down, mostly 14.50 and below; largely fat steer and beef run; western grass receipts 4,000 head; extreme choice to prime fed steers 16.60; best yearlings 16.50; heifer yearlings 16.25; bulk fat steers at close 13.25@16.00; heifers 12.75@15.25; 7.00, common and medium beef cows 7.50@10.00; few strictly good cows passed 11.50 late after making 12.25 and 12.50 early; closing outside on heavy sausages 12.00; general killer trade emphatically on peddling basis at close, with killing capacity most large and small local plants overtaxed.

Slaughtering sheep 500, total 3,000; compared Friday last week; all slaughter classes little changed; deck's top western lambs 14.25; natives 14.50, shorn lambs 13.60; yearlings 12.75, and ewes 6.40; bulk medium to good fat lambs 13.25@14.25; shorn lambs 13.50@13.80; yearlings 10.75@12.75; feeding lambs 10.00@12.75; ewes 5.00@6.25.

Unofficial estimated receipts for Monday: hogs 38,000; cattle 18,000; sheep 14,000.

twice by the British yesterday. Advice to allied headquarters here said there was no question that the situation on Leros was critical.

(BBC broadcast an announcement that fighting was still under way, with the main Nazi drive moving on Leros, main town on the island.)

(The Berlin radio made the flat announcement early today that the island had fallen, and said that British gains made during the Aegean campaign, begun shortly after Italy's capitulation had been reduced to the islands of Samos, Nicaria and Castellorosso. There has been no previous announcement from either the allies or the Germans that Nicaria, which lies 12 miles west of Samos, was in British hands.)

The Dodecanese islands of Cos and Symi previously had been retaken by the nazis, leaving the Greek island of Samos and the Dodecanese island of Castellorosso still firmly in allied hands.

Cairo officials would make no predictions on the outcome of the fighting for Leros.

FIGHTING IN ITALY

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Nov. 13.—(AP)—American troops in sharp fighting have captured two more towns north and northeast of Venafro, and a British patrol has crossed the Sangro river along the eastern end of the Nazi winter line in Italy, it was announced today.

On Mount Cammino above Mignano, southwest of Venafro, allied forces battled back to seize again high grounds they had occupied Wednesday but lost in German counterattacks. Thursday. This surge added new positions beyond Wednesday's advance.

There was bitter fighting under extremely difficult conditions at several points as the allies lashed out against the massive Nazi line, but the front as a whole saw little change during the last 24 hours, allied headquarters announced.

Allied airplanes struck out in new forays into the Balkans yesterday, bombing an oil refinery at Berat and the nearby Kucove airfield in Albania, and the air-drome at Mostar in Yugoslavia, besides carrying out widespread operations against German transports and supplies in Italy.

A naval communiqué disclosed a heavy sea bombardment of enemy positions along the Gulf of Gaeta Tuesday night and again at dawn Wednesday. RAF planes joined in the blasting of the Nazis' western coastal flank, dropping flares to guide the gunners on the British destroyers Tyrian, Tumult and Grieville, and the Polish destroyer Furion.

Nazi Resistance Stiff

U. S. troops in the push above Venafro captured Filignano, four miles north, and Pozzilli, two miles northeast of Venafro. The Germans were putting up the most stubborn resistance on the Fifth Army front in the Venafro and Mignano regions, where any deep allied wedge there would seriously impair other points of their line.

An Eighth Army patrol cut over the Sangro river at an unspecified point to the east, and wiped out a German machine-gun nest.

Farther southwest on the Eighth Army front, a battle raged between Casalagnida, held by the allies, and Ateissi, in German hands. The British occupied important high ground, and repulsed a German counter-attack.

Small advances were reported in the Roniero area up the road north of Isernia, in central Italy.

On the western coast, German patrols were more active, crossing the Garigliano river in some cases.

British General Taken

(A Berlin broadcast said a British General Staverly and a British staff officer were captured in a thrust against allied troops west of Isernia.)

(It declared Americans "attacked German positions at Venafro four times in vain" and that "massed Anglo-American artillery is being shelled by German long-range artillery.")

With the Germans dug into well-concealed positions, the main job at present falls to infantrymen who must scale the heights, creep up to and wipe out the nazis with bayonet or grenades. They are fighting in mud and snow, and carrying supplies in country too rough even for mules.

British May Take Control of Lebanon Unless Crisis Ends

London, Nov. 13.—(AP)—British readiness to take control of Lebanon unless the French end disorders and solve the crisis in that small eastern Mediterranean country, was indicated in high quarters today.

Confronted with the threat of British intervention in their quarrel with the Lebanese nationalists, French authorities denied "serious disorders" had occurred, attributing reports of violence to "enemy propaganda."

British officials declined to say whether Britain might employ armed forces, but correspondents were told they could not exaggerate the importance the British government attaches to maintaining order in the near east.

It was emphasized that Lebanon is part of a strategic area for which British troops are responsible.

Stress Military Considerations
 The British minister in Algiers, Harold MacMillan, is understood to have stressed the military considerations in delivering Britain's protest against the French action in which French forces were reported to have clashed with groups protesting the arrest of the high Lebanese officials.

The government was described as most anxious to quell any trouble that might spread elsewhere in the middle east where feeling was reported running high against the French.

Gen. Georges Catroux, commissioner of state of the French National committee, who has been given full powers to attempt a settlement of the crisis, was reported to have conferred with committee members in Algiers this morning before proceeding to Beirut on his assignment.

May Call on Pasha

Cairo dispatches said Catroux would call on Naha Pasha, Egyptian premier, on his way to Beirut and was expected to bring Gen. Charles De Gaulle's reply to the premier's protest over abrupt French action in Lebanon where the population is more than half Arab.

Lebanon, under French mandate along with Syria since after the World War, was promised her independence in 1941 when the British and Fighting French moved in to expel the Vichy French who were accused of bowing to German plots to occupy the country.

The arrest of the high officials at Beirut by the French apparently developed from Lebanese impatience to implement the pledge of independence.

Catroux to Leave Algiers

Catroux, who negotiated an agreement in March extending fuller measures of self government to Lebanon, will leave Algiers immediately to "take on the spot all measures necessitated by the situation," the committee headed by Gen. Charles De Gaulle, said in Algiers last night.

The statement, first official recognition by the committee of the troubled situation, came a few hours after the British government, preoccupied by the threat of violence in the strategically important near east, urged the committee to end the strife.

The London government, following its protest against the French action taken without British knowledge, instructed Sir Harold Alfred MacMillan, British commander in chief in Palestine, to inform French authorities that Britain adheres firmly to its declaration supporting the assurances of independence given to Lebanon in 1941.

Catroux, as commander of Free French forces in the middle east, proclaimed the independence of Syria and Lebanon after his forces joined the British in 1941 to defeat the Vichy garrisons.

The Algiers statement said it appeared that the cabinet of Premier Riad Solh, although aware of French intentions to give sovereignty to Lebanon had "by passed them and considered it possible to confront France with the fait accompli without taking into account the rights and obligations of the mandatory power, held as long as the (France) has not been regularly relieved of the mandate."

The French delegation in Cairo said that the Lebanese government had decided to put a fait accompli before the committee "under the influence of elements who are not interested in Lebanon's independence and who are more anxious to push France out of those regions."

this course. This may change in the course of time, but that's the way it is now.

If it seems like exaggeration, just stop and check the global set-up. Before this war the great powers of Europe were Russia, Germany, France, Italy and Britain. Italy bids fair to lose her rank of first class power altogether, and poor France will remain in name only for long years to come. Germany's fate remains to be seen, but the Reich most certainly will be rendered impotent to make war, and may even be split up once more into its component states.

Out in the orient the Japanese ability to make war is most certainly being crushed, and the Mikado's empire is going to be torn apart. Rich Manchuria, which Nippon might have held if her savage greed hadn't impelled her to invade China, is going to be taken away. So will Korea, the many mandated islands which the League of Nations awarded her, and the vast territories which she has overrun.

China, who was just getting started in her new democratic way of life when Japan attacked her, has a brilliant future—but the brilliance is definitely of the future. It will take her years to recover from the damage wrought by the barbaric invaders, develop her resources and overcome the tremendous internal political difficulties. Meantime the dominant influences in Asia will be that same big three.

Were the world in a healthy, peaceful condition it likely would be difficult to persuade its people to accept willingly the guardianship of a triple entente like the big three. That's placing a lot of power in the hands of a few.

However, the world is sick. It's going through a re-birth which will introduce a new epoch in the progress of man. There is no earthly power upon which the weaker nations can lean excepting that represented in the big three.

Fortunately the aims of the trio, as indicated by word and deed, are to re-establish peace and help build a free and prosperous world. Their purpose is to draw all nations into this effort on the basis of share-and-share alike.

Thus the main concern of the world at large now is that the big three have indeed reached the stage of mutual trust and co-operation, and that nothing can happen to disturb this unity. It would be foolish to think that differences won't arise among them, but it isn't foolish to believe that there's a good chance of the big three making the grade.

Veterans' Problems Will Be Discussed at Meeting Nov. 18

Next Thursday an American Legion caravan, which is touring the entire state, will be in Dixon for the purpose of bringing the latest information, instruction and assistance to veterans of the present World War and their dependents.

A meeting, to which all veterans and their relatives are invited, will be held in the American Legion hall at 8:00 o'clock on the evening of November 18th. During the meeting the latest information and the best advice on federal and state benefits for veterans will be discussed by L. R. Benston, state service officer of the American Legion; Jack Griswold, 13th district commander; Albert Ruggles, district service officer and Frank J. Gorham, commander Dixon post No. 12.

Many problems which now confront dependents of men and women now serving in the armed forces will be ironed out at this meeting. Answers to many questions bothering relatives of those who are making allotments will be given by Legionnaires well versed in the regulations concerning both state and federal benefits. In addition to those mentioned above, Guy E. Bonney, superintendent, Division of Veteran's Service, will discuss Governor Green's Illinois program for veterans; and John W. Nelson, service officer, Division of Veteran's Service, Department of Public Welfare, will discuss "Veteran's Service".

The meeting is sponsored by Dixon post for the benefit of the veterans of this war and their dependents, relatives and friends, all of whom are urged to attend. There will be no obligation or charge of any kind.

held stronghold of Gomel, 1,000 nazis were killed and many prisoners taken, the communique said. Here again the retreating Germans gave up large stores of war gear.

In a smashing drive against beleaguered Germans northeast of Kerch on the Crimean peninsula, Red army forces destroyed a flotilla of transports endeavoring to evacuate nazis troops. There were no survivors, dispatches said, while in land fighting another 1,500 Germans were slain.

Fog Aids Russians

Germans and Rumanians, entrenched in the hills around Kerch were reported blasting Russian landing operations with heavy gunfire, but aided by a low-hanging fog, Red army troops were gradually establishing strong shore positions under cover of soviet artillery and air force bombers.

(The London radio, broadcasting a report from its Moscow correspondent, which was recorded by CBS, said the Germans already have lost the battle of the Kerch bridgeheads and are blowing up buildings in the town of Kerch in readiness for a retreat to the interior of the Crimea.)

West of Kiev, the Russians were less than 75 miles from the pre-war Polish border. Other forces of Vatutin's First army were pushing southwest toward Berdichev, on the rail line to Warsaw. In the south the Red army was poised on the banks of the Dnieper river, opposite Kherson, and approximately 100 miles from the frontier of Bessarabia, which Rumania wrested from Russia in 1941.

U. S. Merchant Marine Seeks Illinois Youth Enlistments

Appointments as Cadet-Midshipmen in the United States Merchant Marine Cadets Corps with concurrent appointment as Midshipmen, U. S. Naval Reserve, are now open to young men of the state of Illinois according to F. L. Edwards, Lieutenant (jg) USMS, Chicago Public Relations officer, based on advice from the supervisor, U. S. Merchant Marine Cadet Corps.

The appointments, eagerly sought by young men desiring careers at sea as officers in the U. S. Merchant Marine are subject to the following requirements for admission. To qualify for appointment, a candidate must be:

- Unmarried.
- Native born or naturalized at least 10 years previous to the date of application.
- Between 17 and 6 months to 23 years of age.
- Possess 15 scholastic credits (mathematics and science are important).
- Be of good health and moral character.

Appointees may choose either the deck or engineer departments. The first leads to eventual command of a vessel; the second, to chief engineer. It was emphasized that the engineering course offers many fine postwar opportunities afloat or ashore.

The training course has been reduced to eighteen months for the duration of the war and is divided into three phases. These consist of:

- Basic or preliminary course of 3 months.
- Tour of sea duty aboard merchant ships for practical training of at least six months.
- Advanced academic courses at the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy leading to graduation and examination for license as Third Mate or Third Assistant Engineer.

Successful graduates apply for and receive commissions as Ensigns, Merchant Marine Reserve, United States Naval Reserve.

It was pointed out that the U. S. Merchant Marine Cadet Corps is the only officers' training organization offering an opportunity to see active service during the course of training. During training afloat Cadet-Midshipmen are assigned to regular merchant vessels sailing to the many combat areas.

Cadet-Midshipmen have built an enviable record during their service afloat for valor and unusual feats of heroism during enemy action. Five Cadet-Midshipmen already have been cited for bravery, one posthumously, and have received the Medal of the Purple Heart for action in the North African and Sicilian war operations.

While in training, Cadet-Midshipment receive $65 per month in additions to uniforms, subsistence and textbooks. While in service at sea aboard merchant vessels, they receive war bonuses as do the officers and crew of the vessels on which they serve.

All applications must be addressed to the Supervisor, U. S. Merchant Marine Cadet Corps, War Shipping Administration, Training Organization, Washington 25, D. C.

Pvt. Wallace Urban Schnake, son of Mrs. Pearl Loeschner, 103 N. Galena avenue, Dixon, Ill., was enrolled this week in the Keesler Field, Miss., B-24 Liberator bomber mechanics school.

Pvt. Schnake will begin the intensive Army Air Forces Training Command 17-week course in airplane mechanics, successful completion of which will lead to his assignment either to active duty on the line, servicing and maintaining the huge bombers which are carrying the war to the enemy, or to a factory or gunnery school.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Frase, 412 Main St., Ottawa, Ill., has been in the Army Air Forces since Oct. 3, 1942.

News Wanted

The Dixon Evening Telegraph's Saturday edition of "News and Views For and From Our Boys in Service" sponsored by the Dixon merchants, has been successfully carried on since July with the citizens and service boys donating the news most wholeheartedly. The Military Editor of this page wishes to thank the donors and is asking for additional data in forms of addresses and pictures of our boys in the service. The mailing address for this page is in care of Military Editor, Dixon Evening Telegraph.

Walter 'Sonny' Knack, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Knack of 315 Crawford avenue, is now stationed at Sanford, Florida with the U. S. Naval Air Corps. 'Sonny' graduated from Dixon high school with the class of 1943 and was very active in athletics. The present mailing address of 'Sonny' is as follows: Walter C. Eugene Goddard Wins Second Lt's Commission

Eugene W. Goddard received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the Coast Artillery Corps upon successfully completing the officer candidate course at the Anti-aircraft Artillery School, Camp Davis, N. C., on Nov. 4, 1943. He formerly resided at 108 1/2 Peoria avenue, Dixon, Ill.

The newly commissioned local officer will take up his new duties in the Anti-aircraft Artillery after a short furlough. The course at the Anti-aircraft Artillery School is one of the most difficult of the officer candidate tests in the army. Not only do candidates have to meet the high standards of leadership necessary to all officers, but they must be able to master and put into practice the complicated technical art of Anti-aircraft Artillery. Their studies and practical work involve mainly the means and actions by which swift flying enemy aircraft can be shot down or kept from successfully performing bombing missions. In addition, A. A. officers must be able to put their guns to use in other artillery purposes, such as anti-tank.

John J. Fanelli who formerly resided at 221 North Mason avenue, Amboy, was recently graduated from the Army Air Force's Randolph Field, Texas, where he won his wings as a flyer.

Sgt. John A. Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Blackburn of Harmon, Ill., is now receiving mail as follows: 46038105, Company B 21st Armored Infantry Regiment, APO 261, care Postmaster, Los Angeles, Calif.

Joseph LaLande, a French astronomer, in 1805, devised a circular vent in the top of a parachute, a feature which has been used in parachutes down to the present time.

In 1908, the United States War Department accepted delivery of a Wright biplane, the first military airplane in the world, and the first airplane to be operated by any government.

Dixon Elks Club Opens Facilities to Men in Service

The club facilities and conveniences of the Dixon Elks club house has been thrown open to all service men at home on leaving or passing through the city, and this action which was announced recently by Exalted Ruler Gerald Jones, is meeting with a popular response. Several service men have taken advantage of the club rooms to while away a few hours while awaiting transportation schedules or while on leave of absence. Last Sunday several officers from Camp Grant visited the club house and expressed gratification of the voluntary action by the Dixon Elks to provide comfortable club privileges to any uniformed servicemen while in the city.

At present the Elks club house is the only centrally located center where soldiers passing through the city and awaiting transportation schedule may spend a few hours in comfort and find wholesome entertainment. A large sign was posted over the entrance to the club house this week announcing a welcome to all servicemen.

Plan Increase in Facilities. Chairman Ralph Salzman of the entertainment committee has plans for increasing the entertainment facilities to those who take advantage of the lodge's hospitality. All of the members of the police department have been requested to send any uniformed soldier or sailor, whether a resident of this locality or a visitor to the Elks club where they are welcome at all times, and each member of the lodge has been requested to invite servicemen to make use of the club house entertainment and recreation facilities.

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Del Hilvers of Rockford, who visited Dixon lodge this week, stated that the voluntary action of the local Elks lodge was a patriotic and civic movement which would find a ready response from servicemen visiting in the city.

Key Field, Miss., Nov. 13.—Edgar B. Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Crawford of Nachusa, Illinois, has been promoted to the rank of Sergeant, it was announced by his Commanding Officer.

Sergeant Crawford entered the Army in June of 1942, and since August of that year has been serving with a large Reconnaissance Squadron here. He previously has been stationed at Will Rogers Field, Oklahoma, and William Northern Army Air Field, Tullahoma, Tenn. The Sergeant is highly regarded by his fellow men, and his promotion comes as an award for excellence and proficiency in the performance of his duties.

Sergeant Crawford is a graduate of Dixon high school, Dixon, and of Northwestern university where he earned the degree of Bachelor of Science. He is a member of the Masons and the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. Prior to entering the Army, he was employed as an accountant by the Carnegie Illinois Steel Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Authorities Don't Share Optimism of Early End of Wars

Blueprint Reasons for Expecting Continued and Hard Struggle

Washington—(AP)—Army Intelligence, whose business it is to get all the information obtainable about the enemy, has blue-printed for a congressional examination the reasons why many military authorities do not share recent public optimism over prospects for winding up the war in a hurry.

And Maj. Gen. George V. Strong, acting chief of the military intelligence division, after an exhaustive review of what the United Nations are still up against, made this grave observation:

"Our main advantage in the struggle is our ability to produce weapons. If, through unwillingness to face facts, we give up this advantage, if through over-optimism we slow down production and relax our efforts, we may find that our opportunity for victory has escaped us permanently."

The blueprint consisted of a review of a recent address before house members in secret session by Strong in which he presented data indicating the Germans are stronger now than in 1939 when they invaded Poland and that the real fight against Japan in the Pacific has only started. It was sent by the war department to all congressmen, and was made public by Rep. Outland (D-Calif.), who had previously quoted some of Strong's statements.

Report on Germany

The report as to Germany made these points:

Germany has more than 300 well-trained divisions.

United Nations' optimism is based almost entirely on the ability of Russia to keep nearly three-quarters of the German army occupied and the ability of British and American aviators to continue tremendous raids on Germany's European fronts.

German manpower increased from 23,000,000 employed in essential war industries in 1939 to 35,000,000 now.

Included in German armament are many new models of tanks, self-propelled guns, rocket guns and other equipment which in some cases better than anything the allied armies have.

The German air force has become the weakest point of the German forces in Europe, but even this weakness should not be overemphasized. Germans have lost many of their best pilots since 1939. Until last July their production more than made up for their material losses in combat. During the first six months of this year German aircraft production rose approximately 25 per cent. During that time, despite losses, the Germans were building up a surplus of planes. Since July their losses have exceeded production, but unless this high attrition rate is maintained and in order to feed this recuperation the German air force has refused combat wherever possible.

Steel Output Excellent

Germany's steel position is excellent. In 1938 she had a production of 25,600,000 tons. She now controls resources with a total steel production of 42,000,000 tons.

Germany maintains tremendous coal production. In 1942 she produced 186,000,000 tons. Axis Europe as a whole produced almost double that figure.

German synthetic rubber production will soon meet almost all her requirements for 202,000 tons a year.

Although her oil stocks have decreased, Germany can produce or import more than enough oil to meet her requirements. She has sufficient high-octane gasoline for her air forces.

The attack on the Ploesti oil refineries caused a loss of irreplaceable equipment but did not reduce German supplies to a danger point.

The present German production of locomotives is ahead of American production.

The effectiveness of submarines against allied shipping has substantially decreased in recent months but it should be kept in mind that submarines, new or modified, and provided with new weapons and equipment, may reappear in numbers to attack our long supply lines.

Food Position Better

Germany's food position is far better than in the last war.

The bombing of strategic objectives in Germany has caused heavy damage to industries and housing facilities. Production in the Ruhr is estimated to have decreased by 30 per cent during last May and June; this is equivalent to a loss of about three per cent of total German output for those months.

Hamburg has been practically eliminated as a current industrial climber in the war. However, due to decentralization of German industry, bombing attacks must be maintained and even extended in order to affect the economic potential to a critical degree.

This was the picture drawn in the Pacific:

We have yet to reach any main Japanese line of resistance or any point at which they are determined to hold at all costs.

Japan's geography gives her defensive positions great added strength.

The task of destroying or neutralizing the Japanese fleet is still to be accomplished.

Many Jap Air Bases

Numerous well-located air bases give the Japanese control of a chain of airdromes running from their homeland to Singapore in the west and the Solomons in the east, so that they are able to concentrate air power at any given point in the Southwest Pacific without delay.

Japanese manpower: In addition to the 75,000,000 Japanese in the homeland, the military machine is supported by labor of nearly 400,000,000 subject peoples. The Japanese still have about 2,000,000 military aged men not yet called for service. In addition they have 1,500,000 men aged 17 to 20 not subject to the draft. She now has more than 60 divisions in service. Some 9,000,000 workers are now employed in war industries as compared with 3,000,000 when she began her campaign in China.

It is estimated Japan has at least 600 more first line planes than at the outbreak of war. The pilot training program is keeping pace with increased production.

The morale of the Japanese soldiers is excellent. They are now on the defensive and they know it, and their idea is to make the war so costly for us that we will give up before the job is done.

Japan has sufficient supplies of all but a few commodities to carry on a long war. She has enough high-octane gasoline for nearly three years. In addition, she has about one and one-half years' supply of lubricating oils. Due to allied attrition Japan's shipping situation is getting worse.

COL. BRISCOE'S VIEW

Fort Knox, Ky., Nov. 13—(AP)—In a statement issued to be read by all officers, enlisted men and civilian employees at this home of the armored command, Col. N. Butler Briscoe, post commander of Fort Knox, said all their personal plans should be made on a long range basis because "the war is not going to stop soon."

Blaming newspapers and radio announcers for current talk about the war ending soon, Colonel Briscoe said daily news stories of battle successes often are "poured out to the people in a misleading fashion". He said this could be corrected by telling the rate of advance and emphasizing the distance to be traveled.

The commandant said he thought it necessary "to call the facts to your attention" because "misleading good news causes a reduction of effort and leads to absenteeism and dawdling. The continuance of pressure is essential."

L.F. ABNER

For the attack on the Ploesti oil refineries caused a loss of irreplaceable equipment but did not reduce German supplies to a danger point.

The present German production of locomotives is ahead of American production.

The effectiveness of submarines against allied shipping has substantially decreased in recent months but it should be kept in

Verdammt Yankees Don't Fight Like Rule Books State

Somewhere in Italy, Nov. 5—(Delayed)—(AP)—The trouble with this war, from the German point of view, is that these verdammt Yankees don't fight according to Rule Books.

They shoot howitzers on the run and pick off tanks with mortars from a mile away. Gott in Himmel! Right here in der book it says things you chust cannot do!

But the Yanks still are coming forward despite the Boche hide-and-seek tactics which consist of quick stabs at moving units and then scuttling back into the cover of these Appennine hills.

Two Mark IVs were lurking in wait just around the corner in the lee of a hill when Lt. Col. Chris Coyne of Moline, Ill., was moving his 155 millimeter howitzer battalion forward. An observer spotted them and Coyne & Company wrote a new set of howitzer rules.

The young blond battalion commander—a former swimming star at the Moline YMCA—yipped at Corp. Harold J. Williams of Vandalia, Ill., to get his gun section off the road and ready to fire, then he headed up the hill ahead to call the shots.

Williams spluttered that these tanks were less than a mile away, you don't shoot 155s while moving, you don't get them ready to fire at a moment's notice, and you don't try for targets under 5-7 miles. But he and his crew went into action, just the same.

So did Sgt. Robert L. Spriggs of San Francisco, and Corp. Jack Nolan of San Luis Obispo, Calif. They followed Coyne, running a quick field phone line from the guns to the top of the hill, Spriggs manned the hill phone, Nolan the one at the guns.

The boys sent the barrel down as far as they'd go, put in a single charge of powder to hold the range close.

"Fire!" yelled Spriggs to Nolan to Williams, who had the gun ready. It boomed, but the elevation was too high and the shell screamed over the Jerries' head. Coyne called First Lt. Robert E. Deal, Battery B executive officer, of Greensburg, Pa., to pull in the 4th gun section under Corporal John D. Collins, Silverton, Oregon.

They pulled this gun barrel so low it blasted shingles from a nearby hut. The third shell knocked out one tank and the next few damaged the other.

GIZZARD GRINDS

Teeth would be of no value to a bird. It must grab its food in a hurry and would have no time to chew. The gizzard takes care of this by grinding the food up after it is swallowed.

TODAY on the HOME FRONT

by JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, Nov. 13—(AP)— Who's the little guy with the worried look?

That's the white collar worker,
he or she, the clerk, typist, stenographer, teacher, bookkeeper, accountant.

There are about 11 million of him in this country now and he is, in a way, the forgotten man in a nutcracker.

Government officials say no
salary-living cost figures on him exist but that nevertheless it is certain his earnings have lagged far behind those of other classes of workers.

The government's Bureau of Labor Statistics, which keeps score on living costs, also keeps regular records on the percentage increase in the earnings of workers in manufacturing jobs.

Every month the bureau sends out 30,000 questionnaires to manufacturers on the weekly and hourly earnings of their workers, almost all over in overalls. In that way the increases in earnings can be traced for that group. But there is no similar check on white collar workers.

Recently the bureau's investigators went into 65,000 establishments—including banks and hotels

—and learned what salaries white collar workers were drawing now
in different areas.

But those figures will not reveal whether the white collar workers' present salaries are higher now than they were, say, when the war started and living costs started upward.

The war has doubly nicked white collar workers: higher taxes and higher living costs. Those living costs have been rising steadily,
still are going up.

Manufacturing workers who have received increases—like steel workers—are beginning to clamor
for more, on grounds that the government has not held living costs down.

If wages start moving up, living costs certainly will go up, too.
White collar workers then will be caught in the middle.

Dean Wayne L. Morse of the War Labor Board has said that the white collar group "usually suffers more than any other during the period of adjustment from a peacetime to a wartime economy."

"It is the salaried employees of the middle or low income brackets who are the last to receive an increased income. While they await this increase, living costs rise, purchasing power decreases and, if inflation becomes severe, their entire savings are jeopardized."

Labor representatives say the great majority of white collar workers earn less than $1,500 a year.

Government officials say the largest group of white collar workers who haven't received any increase at all are federal, state and municipal employees. There are about four million of them.

FLOUTING THE LAW

Danville, Va.—Danville police are looking for a bold thief who walked right out of their detec-
tive's department with $135.65
which was being held as evidence.

The money had been left in a stationery cabinet adjoining a small detention room and Chief of Police Ural Watson said he believed a prisoner had taken the money while detectives were out.

THE TALENTED GUY

WITH all the appeals for help from the Red Cross and similar organizations, nearly everyone can find something to do for the war effort which is exactly in keeping with what he likes to do best. There are all the calls for money and clothing and the requests for cookies and now Christmas presents for the boys at Camp Grant. Or if you enjoy sewing there are all kinds of things the Red Cross desires.

IF YOU have some money to donate for a present or if you have some games, puzzles or anything a convalescent might enjoy, wrap it up, tell what is inside and leave it with your Red Cross chairman. It will be sent to Camp Grant and distributed on Christmas to those boys whom "Santa Claus" does not remember.

THERE is no end to the knitting game! One of the most interesting things which can be done in this work are the afghans for nurses who are going overseas. The reason this appeals to so many people is because you can use the small, otherwise useless, left-over pieces of yarn to make these little six-inch squares. The "garter" stitch is used. When 96 of these squares are assembled by some organization or are turned in at Red Cross headquarters the colors are sorted and put together to make this handy spread which is four feet wide by six feet long.

BY THE way—if you have a little left over wool yarn either give it to your knitting neighbor to make some squares or knit it up yourself and take it down to the Red Cross room at the Nachusa hotel if you live in Dixon. The room is open from 11 to 4:30 on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday each week.

THERE is another appeal which is just now being publicized, and that is the need for volunteer workers to copy stories and articles in Braille for the soldiers who are returning from this war-blinded. It has been found that middle aged women who have a great deal of time and patience make the best transcribers.

THE history of Braille is interesting—it originated in a small village near Paris where Louis Braille was born in 1809. He lost his sight when he was still a boy and went to the school for the blind in Paris. He was trained as a musician, but was disturbed because he could play only by ear. So he developed the method of using dots which the blind could read by the sense of touch.

THIS early system was made by a set of six dots, two wide and three high and by this he made 63 combinations which is now known as Grade I Braille. In 1857 it was brought to this country through a teacher in Mobile, Alabama. In 1878 Perkins Institute put into practice a set of more than 200 contractions which is known as Grade 2 Braille and cuts down the size of the volumes over half.

THE work is done on a slate, so called, actually a wooden board at the top of which is a metal clamp which holds the paper firmly in place. A metal clip band which contains the groups of six dots, is placed over the paper and the writing is done with a stylus. The writing is done on heavy manila paper. Hand transcribing is worked from right to left for, when used, the paper is turned over and the raised dots are read by a blind person running his finger tips lightly over them.

THE Braille editions are about three times the length of ordinary publications and the slowness and preciseness of the work makes the cost almost prohibitive. So for a long time there have been people throughout the United States who have done this work and supplemented commercial firms. The Braille copies are then usually sent to a large central library where the blind of that state or city may all have access to them.

THE fact that there are so many who will come back from this war without their sight and who will need every bit of rehabilitation that anyone can give them makes this appeal more urgent at the present time. Chicago Woman's Clubs have been active in sponsoring classes to teach Braille to transcribers and many of their members are now putting in their spare moments on this literary effort rather than sewing or doing other Red Cross work.

WHEN you realize that a book like Jane Eyre costs $30 in Braille you can see that there is a need for volunteer help. Even if a person had time to do only such little things as jokes and short skits it would help and be as valuable as the joke and cartoon scrap books everyone is being asked to make.

While Germany is flooded with anti-Catholic propaganda, there has been a noted religious renaissance among Catholic German soldiers in Italy. Super-human demands are put on the German soldiers in general and the unbroken series of defeats which Germany has suffered for more than a year has had a marked influence on morale among the soldiers.

There is also the influence of a black post-war prospect, and more sensitive Germans suffer from the depressing feeling that the Germans have the unpleasant record of being the most hated people. This is noticed in a thousand ways and not only in Italy.

Before the altar in the underground church in St. Francis' Basilica in Assisi, I saw German soldiers and officers kneel and pray. It was strange to see their uniforms and hear the clink of iron from their boots echo in the peaceful church.

Their presence in the church gave a picture of how far Germany has gone and that the German people want something different than what Dr. Goebbels has been preaching in Das Reich. Just after the armistice, when German troops entered Rome from Ostia after fierce fighting in which they had the support of tanks and artillery, I inspected devastated city blocks. I talked with a group of German parachutists and asked how it all happened.

VATICAN CITY A HAVEN OF PEACE

Another uncensored story describing what is really going on in German-occupied Italy. Gunnar D. Kumlien, chief Rome correspondent for the Stockholm newspaper Tiden, wrote the series especially for The Associated Press. To bring the story back, he traveled by truck, train and plane

By GUNNAR D. KUMLIEN

Stockholm.—Pope Pius XII stands today as a symbol of peace. Since the dramatic days beginning in September, 1939, he has frankly and impartially worked for peace.

The little word of peace is now a magical word which contains hope within the fortress of Europe. While fascism is now a "living corpse," and the House of Savoy has lost prestige in the eyes of many Italians, Vatican City still is a haven of peace in the eyes of tremendous numbers of Europeans.

German soldiers occupy Rome and stand guard outside Vatican City. They have been told the pope has a powerful armed force—although the Swiss guards only received live instead of blank ammunition for their rifles—and that the Vatican is a den of Jews. Despite this attitude among the soldiers and although the nazis have fostered date propaganda against the Catholic church and have appropriated church property in Germany, relations between the German occupation forces in Rome and the Catholic church on the whole have been correct since the Italian capitulation.

I talked with a number of diplomats at Vatican City and members of the Swiss guard which is assigned to defend against attacks, although the Pope does not want them to shoot, whatever happens. All agree the Germans have acted correctly toward the Vatican so far as form is concerned.

They all make reservations as to what the future situation will be when Rome becomes a fighting zone. The mysterious bombing of Vatican City last week was a serious warning of a dangerous position.

Super-human demands are put on the German soldiers in general and the unbroken series of defeats which Germany has suffered for more than a year has had a marked influence on morale among the soldiers.

There is also the influence of a black post-war prospect, and more sensitive Germans suffer from the depressing feeling that the Germans have the unpleasant record of being the most hated people. This is noticed in a thousand ways and not only in Italy.

Just after the armistice, when German troops entered Rome from Ostia after fierce fighting in which they had the support of tanks and artillery, I inspected devastated city blocks. I talked with a group of German parachutists and asked how it all happened.

Meantime, an officer standing in front of St. Peter's frequently directs his field glass toward the Papal rooms. The Germans are alert. Even so, incidents such as a few days ago a diplomatic automobile with a Vatican license plate arrived from the center of Rome. It was allowed to pass the German guards while the Swiss swung back the heavy iron gates to the left of the main entrance of St. Peter's. The Germans, watching the diplomat's car so intently, did not notice a small private automobile following almost immediately behind. With a burst of speed the car swept past the Germans and disappeared behind a Swiss sentry box.

It was such a daring maneuver that not even the Swiss could halt the car. When it was well inside Vatican City, three American prisoners of war jumped out and performed a wild triumphal dance on the neutral ground. They had taken the car outside Rome from the Germans, who earlier had confiscated it from an Italian. The Americans were not the first allied prisoners to escape into the protection of the Vatican, but they were the first to do it past German guards.

A daughter was born to Rev. and Mrs. Robert A. Mulligan of LaSalle on Monday, Nov. 8. Rev. Mr. Mulligan is a former pastor of the Ohio Methodist church.

Mrs. Robert Ewalt and Mrs. George L. Sisler were hostesses Wednesday afternoon to the U. S. C. S. of the Methodist church at the Ewalt home. Mrs. Luella Ioder led the devotions, and Mrs. Mabel Ruff conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Clayton Guither, assisted by Mrs. Hammett, Mrs. Sisler, Mrs. Bertha Balcom and Mrs. W. E. Pvt. Lee Gorman of Camp Livingston, La., is spending a 10 day furlough here.

The Dorcas circle of the Methodist church will meet on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Esther Jackson, with Mrs. Amanda Erickson, assistant hostess. Carpet rags will be sewed for the Red Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Carter of Kasbeer are the parents of a daughter, born on Monday, Nov. 8, at the Perry Memorial hospital in Princeton. Mrs. Carter was formerly Miss Gladys Ayres of this city.

The Ohio grade school was closed all day Thursday and the high school closed at noon in observance of Armistice day.

Pfc. Donald Anderson of Waco, Tex., is spending a few days' furlough at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Hopper, Mrs. Thelma Conner, and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Jackson and daughter Dorothy attended a banquet and meeting of war fund drive committees which was held Monday evening in the Swedish Lutheran church in Princeton.

ning, Ga., is visiting his parents, Mrs. Breda Foley was hostess Tuesday afternoon to the D. M. C. club.

Several friends from this place attended funeral services for Dr. Gunning which were held Thursday afternoon in Princeton.

Mrs. Jack Foley and Mrs. Howard McDonald spent Monday in Sterling.

Thursday the WSCS will meet at the church during the afternoon with Mesdames Levey, Brown, Rapp, Koch and Wouff as hostesses.

Monday evening, November 22, the members and friends of the Steward church will again meet for a church night gathering. This will be an informal evening with a "pot luck" supper, to which all will contribute. On the program for evening's entertainment will be included a radio broadcast skit, while the chief discussion of the evening will center around Steward's place in the current pension campaign. It is expected that this one evening, besides giving the usual fellowship which goes with church night, will give a large number of an opportunity to express themselves on the pension fund and by a concentrating on one meeting Steward may meet her expectations without a long campaign.

"Casablanca Ferry"
By LT. (j.g.) JOHN A. MACAULEY
Overseas Correspondent, War Shipping Administration

A Southwest Pacific Port of Debarcation—(Delayed)—The "Casablanca Ferry"—a troopship with a record and a crack Merchant Marine crew—docked here this morning and began disgorging more men and guns and other war gear than the censor cares to have mention.

The log of the "Casablanca Ferry" writes off another safe delivery of the materials that go to beat the axis.

"Give us the stuff," say the military men, "and we'll win."

The Merchant Marine—thousands of plugging eight-thousand freighters, crack liners, converted to war use, tankers, rust-pots, sleek new Maritime Commission jobs—is the link between production and the battlefield. It is the all-important stem line of supply that runs daily schedules to the fighting fronts.

And the men who run the submarine blockades take it as regularly and as casually as you board and ride the commuter express home each evening.

The "Casablanca Ferry" got her name for her many torpedo-dodging runs into that North African port when the Luftwaffe and German undersea raiders were making South Atlantic waters hot enough to hardboil eggs.

Today, net slings are dipping into her holds and bringing out ammunition and guns and food, and soldiers in battle kits are going down the gangplank to make war on another front.

But the disembarking soldiers are the most important, most impressive. This is the beginning of their day which would extend until the Japs are driven out from these islands and beaten to their knees. This is the start and they do it with a dash.

The ship has carried many troops before of all kinds and of a high grade of efficiency. Pilots and paratroopers, anti-aircraft units, labor battalions and infantry have bunked in her before this. Each group has tried to set a standard which would not be bettered by their predecessors. With each the standard has been high.

But the men and the officers of the ship agree that so far this is the finest group of all.

How could the ship's personnel do otherwise? These soldiers have bettered a record for assembling for abandon ship drill by over two minutes. The former record set by a group of paratroopers was four minutes and 51 seconds. Over 25,000 troops have tried to beat it. Until this time no one has.

And those departing soldiers kept their quarters immaculate for inspection, stiffened to attention at the remote approach of one of their own or the ship's officers.

There is a lot of real Army in this outfit. Most of the non-coms have done a couple of hitchhikes and a hitch is three years. The shavetails, first lieutenants and captains have for the most part come up through the ranks after two or three years peacetime service as corporals and sergeants. Some of the majors were top sergeants. The balance of the officers were West Point.

Enlisting in this Army unit was voluntary. The enlisted men are proud of this fact. This unit has produced many of the most famous generals. This unit has tradition and a song which will make them known wherever they go.

But in Army parlance this unit is "losing its identity for the duration."

We on the bridge did not know how this was literally possible, for these men were so outstanding. But maybe the Army did not mean it literally, only technically.

Anyway they are a hardy, tough bunch. They have been trained in every type of land warfare weapon known to us or the enemy. In fact some of the weapons are not known to the enemy but will soon be felt by them.

It made quite a sight as they came down the gangway with their packs, their knives, and canteens and rifles, their barracks bags loaded on their shoulders. They are carrying around 150 pounds of full equipment.

But they come down the gangway running—"On the double."

In the dust beside the pier, I turn to look goodbye to the ship.

There she lies with the early morning sun on her stacks, shining on the steamer sitting high above me on the stages repainting the funnels. Their brown backs and blue denim trousers stand out against the gray background.

Down below the troops are still running down the gangway, still assembling. On one side of the gangway stands their Commanding Officer. He is a mite but very adequate welcoming committee. On the other side stands the unit's band. It is playing "Dixie." There is a roar from the men inside the vessel; a lot of these boys come from below the Mason-Dixon line.
